Magistrates Tale A Front Line Report From A New Jp:

The Magistrate's Tale Trevor Grove, 2012-08-07 When Trevor Grove was called up for Jury service he became so intrigued with the justice system that he wrote a successful book about it The Juryman's Tale Now he's joined the magistracy and gives a fascinating funny and insightful account of just how the magistracy works at a time of great change Lay magistrates deal with more than 95 per cent of all criminal cases in England and Wales yet they are all volunteers drawn from local communities with no legal training or special qualifications and are not paid a penny for what they do Astonishingly little is known about what it is like to serve as a magistrate Each year 5 000 people apply to become magistrates only 25 per cent are successful This book is the first for many years to shed light on the experience Interweaving his own personal experience of becoming a magistrate in north London with general observations relevant interviews and a little history Trevor Grove takes us on a fascinating journey into this extraordinary and unique institution He has visited courts all over the country to talk to magistrates and observe how crimes and criminals differ from region to region and how the benches dealing with them differ too He has visited jails and Young Offenders Institutions and he has interviewed all of the principal players from the Lord Chief Justice and Home Secretary to more integral characters such as justices clerks ushers probation officers local police and offenders His journey uncovers a remarkable act of national faith in the good sense of ordinary people which says a great deal more about the strength and health of our democracy than is sufficiently appreciated

Punishment Thom Brooks, 2012 Punishment is an area of increasing importance and concern to both citizens and politicians How do we decide what should be crimes How do we decide when someone is responsible for a crime What should we do with criminals These are the main questions raised in this book

Juvenile Offending Thom Brooks, 2023-05-31 Tackling juvenile offending has become a key part of crime reduction strategies The articles selected for this volume examine juvenile offending from various critical perspectives and represent the work of the most influential international figures in the field The issues addressed include the different needs and perspectives of youth offenders whether offenders should be treated differently from others because of their age recommendations of policy changes identification of risk factors issues surrounding the sentencing of juvenile offenders and the relevance of restorative justice

The Right to a Fair Trial Thom Brooks, 2017-07-05 The right to a fair trial is often held as a central constitutional protection It nevertheless remains unclear what precisely should count as a fair trial and who should decide verdicts This already difficult issue has become even more important given a number of proposed reforms of the trial especially for defendants charged with terrorism offences This collection The Right to a Fair Trial is the first to publish in one place the most influential work in the field on the following topics including the right to jury trial lay participation in trials jury nullification trial reform the civil jury trial and the more recent issue of terrorism trials The collection should help inform both scholars and students of both the importance and complexity of the right to a fair trial as well as shed light on how the trial might be further improved

Text and Materials on the Criminal Justice Process Nicola Padfield, Jonathan Bild, 2015-12-14 Highlighting key issues in Criminal Justice that students need to consider the Fifth Edition of this popular text contains a wide and varied selection of materials which help to explain the evolution of the criminal justice process in England and Wales since the early 1990s Statutes case law empirical research and official and unofficial reports as well as theoretical perspectives and academic comment are woven together and contextualized by the accompanying narrative to provide an authoritative account of the recent development of the criminal justice system Fully updated this Fifth Edition explores the issues around the introduction of Police and Crime Commissioners the contracting out of probation services the significant reforms to legal aid funding the challenges to trial by jury posed by the internet This book also helpfully directs students to further reading by chapter to provide next steps for research Written in an accessible style Text and Materials on the Criminal Justice Process is a valuable resource for students of criminal justice Justice Reform and Development Linn A. Hammergren, 2014-04-29 This book explores the objectives pursued in donor programs the methods used to advance them and the underlying assumptions and strategies It emphasizes the unexpected and sometimes unpleasant consequences of ignoring not only political and societal constraints but also advances in our technical approaches to performance improvement the one area where the First World has a comparative advantage The geographic scope of the work is broad incorporating examples from Eastern and Central Europe Latin America Africa and the Asia Pacific region as well as from several First World nations Justice Reform and Development examines First World assistance to justice or rule of law reforms in developing and transitional societies arguing that its purported failure is vastly exaggerated largely because of unrealistic expectations as to what could be accomplished Change nonetheless is needed if the programs are to continue and would be best based on targeting specific performance problems incorporation of donor countries experience with their own reforms and greater attention to relevant research While contributing to an on going debate among practitioners and academics involved in justice programs this book will also be accessible to readers with little exposure to the topics especially advanced undergraduate and graduate students in law political science and areas studies

Changing Contours of Criminal Justice Mary Bosworth,Carolyn Hoyle,Lucia Zedner,2016-11-17 Celebrating the 50th Anniversary of the Oxford Centre for Criminology this edited collection of essays seeks to explore the changing contours of criminal justice over the past half century and to consider possible shifts over the next few decades The question of how social science disciplines develop and change does not invite any easy answer with the task made all the more difficult given the highly politicised nature of some subjects and the volatile evolving status of its institutions and practices A case in point is criminal justice at once fairly parochial much criminal justice scholarship is now global in its reach and subject areas that are now accepted as central to its study victims restorative justice security privatization terrorism citizenship and migration to name just a few were topics unknown to the discipline half a century ago Indeed most criminologists would have once stoutly denied that they had anything to do with it Likewise some central topics of past criminological attention like probation have largely receded from academic attention and some central criminal justice institutions like Borstal and corporal punishment have at least in Europe been abolished Although the rapidity and radical nature of this change make it quite impossible to predict what criminal justice will look like in fifty years time reflection on such developments may assist in understanding how it arrived at its current form and hint at what the future holds The contributors to this volume have been invited to reflect on the impact Oxford criminology has had on the discipline providing a unique and critical discussion about the current state of criminal justice around the world and the origins and future implications of contemporary practice All are leading internationally renowned criminologists whose work has defined and often re defined our understanding of criminal justice policy and literature
