The Oldest Vocation Clarissa W. Atkinson, 2019-03-15 According to an old story a woman concealed her sex and ruled as pope for a few years in the ninth century Pope Joan was not betrayed by a lover or discovered by an enemy her downfall came when she went into labor during a papal procession through the streets of Rome From the myth of Joan to the experiences of saints nuns and ordinary women The Oldest Vocation brings to life both the richness and the troubling contradictions of Christian motherhood in medieval Europe After tracing the roots of medieval ideologies of motherhood in early Christianity Clarissa W Atkinson reconstructs the physiological assumptions underlying medieval notions about women's bodies and reproduction inherited from Greek science and popularized through the practice of midwifery these assumptions helped shape common beliefs about what mothers were She then describes the development of spiritual motherhood both as a concept emerging out of monastic ideologies in the early Middle Ages and as a reality in the lives of certain remarkable women Atkinson explores the theological dimensions of medieval motherhood by discussing the cult of the Virgin Mary in twelfth century art story and religious expression She also offers a fascinating new perspective on the women saints of the later Middle Ages many of whom were mothers their lives and cults forged new relationships between maternity and holiness The Oldest Vocation concludes where most histories of motherhood begin in early modern Europe when the family was institutionalized as a center of religious and social organization Anyone interested in the status of motherhood or in women's history the cultural history of the Middle Ages or the history of religion will want to read this book

Sanctity and Motherhood Anneke Mulder-Bakker, 2013-05-13 Increasingly recent scholarship has focused on those married women and mothers in the Middle Ages who achieved holiness The Merovingian Waldeburdis and Rictrudis Ida mother of the crusader king Godfrey of Bouillon Elisabeth of Hungary and Bridget of Sweden are among them Unlike Mary and her mother Saint Anne mother saints whose sanctity was based on motherhood these female parents were honored despite rather than because of their children They were holy mothers whose status as spouses and mothers gave them a public voice and opened for them the road to sanctification They successfully combined marriage and motherhood with a religious life and functioned as holy women in their community Despite increasing respect tension between the roles of saint and wife persisted Saintly women were not expected to be happily married the ancient prejudice against sexual passion and physical ease mitigated the enjoyment of married life The book's original essays focus on Northern Europe where the cult of Saint Anne reached its climax around 1500 It does not explore Church doctrine and theology as other studies do but examines the religious experience of historical holy mothers and saints and how these women were perceived by their communities and their biographers

A History of African Motherhood Rhiannon Stephens, 2015-08-06 This history of African motherhood over the longue dure demonstrates that it was ideologically and practically central to social economic cultural and political life The book explores how people in the North Nyanzan societies of Uganda used an ideology of motherhood to shape their communities More than biology motherhood created essential social and political connections that cut across patrilineal and cultural linguistic divides The importance of motherhood as an ideology and a social institution meant that in chiefdoms and kingdoms queen mothers were powerful officials who legitimated the power of kings This was the case in Buganda the many kingdoms of Busoga and the polities of Bugwere By taking a long term perspective from c 700 to 1900 CE and using an interdisciplinary approach drawing on historical linguistics comparative ethnography and oral traditions and literature as well as archival sources this book shows the durability mutability and complexity of ideologies of motherhood in this region

Motherhood, Religion, and Society in Medieval Europe, 400-1400 Lesley Smith, Conrad Leyser, 2016-04-22 Who can concentrate on thoughts of Scripture or philosophy and be able to endure babies crying Will he put up with the constant muddle and squalor which small children bring into the home The wealthy can do so but philosophers lead a very different life So according to Peter Abelard did his wife Heloise state in characteristically stark terms the antithetical demands of family and scholarship Heloise was not alone in making this assumption Sources from Jerome onward never cease to remind us that the life of the mind stands at odds with life in the family For all that we have moved in the past two generations beyond kings and battles fiefs and barons motherhood has remained a blind spot for medieval historians Whatever the reasons the result is that the historiography of the medieval period is largely motherless The aim of this book is to insist that this picture is intolerably one dimensional and to begin to change it The volume is focussed on the paradox of motherhood in the European Middle Ages to be a mother is at once to hold great power and by the same token to be acutely vulnerable The essays look to analyse the powers and the dangers of motherhood within the warp and weft of social history beginning with the premise that religious discourse or practice served as a medium in which mothers and others could assess their situation defend claims and make accusations Within this frame three main themes emerge survival agency and institutionalization The volume spans the length and breadth of the Middle Ages from late Roman North Africa through ninth century Byzantium to late medieval Somerset drawing in a range of types of historian including textual scholars literary critics students of religion and economic historians The unity of the volume arises from the very diversity of approaches within it all addressed to the central topic Motherhood and Meaning in Medieval Sculpture Marian Bleeke, 2017 An examination of women as mothers in medieval French sculpture What can medieval sculptural representations of women tell us about medieval women's experiences of motherhood Presumably the work of male sculptors working for clerical patrons these sculptures are unlikely to have been shaped by women's maternal experiences during their production Once produced however their beholders would have included women who were mothers and potential mothers thus opening a space between the sculptures intended meanings and other meanings liable to be produced by these women as they brought their own interests and concerns to these works of art Building on theories of reception and response this book focuses on interactions between women as beholders and a range of sculptures made in France in the twelfth through sixteenth centuries aiming to provide insight into women's experiences of motherhood particular sculptures considered include the Annunciation and Visitation from Reims cathedral the femme aux serpents from Moissac the transi of Jeanne de Bourbon Vendôme the Eve from Autun and a number of French Gothic Virgin and Child sculptures Marian Bleeke is Associate Professor of Art History and Chair of the Department of Art and Design at Cleveland State University
