In 1850 and again in 1860 the U S government carried out a census of slave owners and their property Transcribed by Mr Cox the 1850 U S slave census for Georgia is important for two reasons First some of the slave owners appearing here do not appear in the 1850 U S census of population for Georgia and are thus restored to the population of 1850 Second and of considerable interest to historians the transcription shows that less than 10 percent of the Georgia white population owned slaves in 1850 In fact by far the largest number of slave owners were concentrated in Glynn County a coastal county known for its rice production The slave owners census is arranged in alphabetical order according to the surname of the slave owner and gives his her full name number of slaves owned and the county of residence It is one of the great disappointments of the ante bellum U S population census that the slaves themselves are not identified by name rather merely as property owned Nevertheless now that Mr Cox has made the names of these Georgia slave owners with their aggregations of slaves more widely available it may be just possible that more persons with slave ancestors will be able to trace them via other records property records for example pertaining to the 37 000 slave owners enumerated in this new volume

Footsteps in the Dark George Lipsitz,2007 Most pop songs are short lived They appear suddenly and if they catch on seem to be everywhere at once before disappearing again into obscurity Yet some songs resonate more deeply often in ways that reflect broader historical and cultural changes In Footsteps in the Dark George Lipsitz illuminates these secret meanings offering imaginative interpretations of a wide range of popular music genres from jazz to salsa to rock Sweeping changes that only remotely register in official narratives Lipsitz argues can appear in vivid relief within popular music especially when these changes occur outside mainstream white culture Using a wealth of revealing examples he discusses such topics as the emergence of an African American techno music subculture in Detroit as a contradictory case of digital capitalism and the prominence of banda merengue and salsa music in the 1990s as an expression of changing Mexican Dominican and Puerto Rican nationalisms Approaching race and popular music from another direction he analyzes the Ken Burns PBS series Jazz as a largely uncritical celebration of American nationalism that obscures the civil rights era's challenge to racial inequality and he takes on the infamous campaigns to censor hip hop and the radical black voice in the early 1990s Teeming with astute observations and brilliant insights about race and racism deindustrialization and urban renewal and their connections to music Footsteps in the Dark puts forth an alternate history of post cold war America and shows why in an era given to easy answers and clichéd versions of history pop songs matter more than ever George Lipsitz is professor of black studies and sociology at the University of California Santa Barbara Among his many books are Life in the Struggle Dangerous Crossroads and American Studies in a Moment of Danger Minnesota 2001
