Five Lectures on Blindness Kate M. Foley,2019-12-05 In Five Lectures on Blindness Kate M Foley engages in a profound exploration of the psychological philosophical and social ramifications of blindness moving beyond the physical condition to illuminate its broader implications for human experience The book is structured as a series of lectures that interweave personal narrative theoretical discourse and empirical research reflecting a literary style that is both accessible and intellectually rigorous Foley draws upon a rich tapestry of historical texts and contemporary theories situating her work within the context of disability studies and phenomenology while also engaging with crucial themes of perception and existence Kate M Foley a prominent scholar in visual culture and critical theory has dedicated her academic career to studying the intersections of sight perception and identity Her insights stem from extensive research and personal reflections on the way blindness is culturally and socially constructed Foley s unique perspective is informed by her interdisciplinary background which encompasses philosophy literary theory and the arts allowing her to address the nuances of blindness with both empathy and intellectual depth I wholeheartedly recommend Five Lectures on Blindness to scholars students and general readers alike This book not only challenges our understanding of perception but also invites us to reconsider our relationships with others and the world around us Foley's eloquent prose and thoughtful analysis make this work an essential addition to discussions surrounding disability perception and the human condition

Visual Impairment and Blindness

Giuseppe Lo Giudice, Angel Catala, 2020-09-09 Blindness and vision impairment affect at least 2.2 billion people worldwide with most individuals having a preventable vision impairment. The majority of people with vision impairment are older than 50 years; however, vision loss can affect people of all ages. Reduced eyesight can have major and long-lasting effects on all aspects of life, including daily personal activities, interacting with the community, school, and work opportunities, and the ability to access public services. This book provides an overview of the effects of blindness and visual impairment in the context of the most common causes of blindness in older adults as well as children, including retinal disorders, cataracts, glaucoma, and macular or corneal degeneration.

Five Lectures On Blindness Kate M. Foley, 2008-10-01 Immerse yourself in the insightful exploration of blindness and its implications with Kate M. Foley's illuminating collection Five Lectures on Blindness. Step into the world of sensory perception and adaptation as Foley delves into the complexities of living without sight. Through a series of thought-provoking lectures, she offers profound insights into the experiences, challenges, and triumphs of individuals navigating the world as blind or visually impaired. Themes of resilience, empowerment, and the transformative power of adaptation resonate throughout the lectures, inviting readers to reconsider their perceptions of disability and explore the rich diversity of human experience. Foley's compassionate and insightful approach sheds light on the unique perspectives and capabilities of individuals living with blindness, challenging stereotypes and fostering empathy. Through vivid storytelling and personal anecdotes, Foley brings to life the experiences of blind individuals and the innovative techniques they employ to navigate the world. From mastering Braille to utilizing assistive technology, each lecture offers a glimpse into the ingenuity and resourcefulness of those living with visual impairment. The overall tone of the collection is one of empathy and understanding, as Foley celebrates the resilience and determination of individuals overcoming the challenges of blindness. With its blend of personal narratives, educational insights, and practical advice, Five Lectures on Blindness offers a comprehensive and inspiring exploration of a topic that touches us all. Five Lectures on Blindness has earned acclaim for its compassionate portrayal of blindness and its thoughtful examination of the societal barriers and misconceptions that individuals with visual impairment face. Critics and readers alike have praised Foley's ability to shed light on a complex and often misunderstood topic with clarity, sensitivity, and grace. Whether you're personally affected by blindness, work in a related field, or simply wish to broaden your understanding of human diversity, Five Lectures on Blindness promises to enlighten and inspire. The Staff of Oedipus Martha L. Rose, 2013-10-04 Ancient Greek images of disability permeate the Western consciousness Homer Teiresias and Oedipus immediately come to mind But The Staff of Oedipus looks at disability in the ancient world through the lens of disability studies and reveals that our interpretations of disability in the ancient world are often skewed These false assumptions in turn lend weight to modern day discriminatory attitudes toward disability Martha L Rose considers a range of disabilities and the narratives surrounding them She examines not only ancient literature but also papyrus skeletal material inscriptions sculpture and painting and draws upon modern work including autobiographies of people with disabilities medical research and theoretical work in disability studies Her study uncovers the realities of daily life for people with disabilities in ancient Greece and challenges the translation of the term adunatos unable as disabled with all its modern associations Five Lectures on Blindness

Kate M. Foley, 2015-03-10 they were true teachers and college men and understood the value of scholastic attainment to the blind As far back as I can remember they urged us all to prepare for college and to stimulate this desire they kept in close touch with the work of the university and often brought essays written by the advanced students to encourage us in our literary efforts assuring us with a little practice we could write as well Often too they would take classes to hear a lecture on some subject under discussion thus forging the first link between the school and the university in whose shadow our young lives were spent In preparing us for competition with seeing students Mr Charles Wilkinson used to say never ask for quarter because of your blindness Do Research in Education, 1968 Proposals to Improve the Effectiveness of the Social Security Administration's Vocational Rehabilitation Program United States.
