

A government wants to improve the welfare of its people...

... but individual welfare is unmeasurable in absolute (not relative) terms.

A reasonable aim would be to reach a state of Pareto efficiency...

... where each individual trades to improve their own welfare...

... until they reach a compromise, or equilibrium, where you can't make one person better off without hurting the others.
