Seeing Ourselves in Nature Jessica Fong, 2025-08-19 Discover the profound and joyous stories of Black and Brown nature educators In Seeing Ourselves in Nature author Jessica Fong asks how educators in the United States who are Black Indigenous or other people of color can create space for predominantly BIPOC children and families to reconnect to nature Recognizing the scarcity of stories from people of color in the predominately white literature surrounding nature education in the United States Fong sought out thirteen other BIPOC educators to share their rich and profound experiences with young children in nature Sharing these stories is a first step in the long road to making nature education equitable for all children In section one educators work toward liberation and justice by actively pushing against the pushdown of academics on children of color In section two community and cultural connections based in nature come to the forefront as educators share the importance of seeing Black and Brown faces in natural spaces both in real life and in the images found in books In section three prose and poetry stories from Black women become radical by virtue of their simplicity as they connect the students and families they serve by centering their experiences with nature In section four children harness their powerful curiosity and intrinsic motivation when interacting with nature

Seeing God Everywhere: Essays On Nature Barry McDonald, 2010-08-01 How do people sense God's presence in created things Seeing God Everywhere is an anthology of essays on nature and the sacred which address that question Written by an impressive list of spiritual leaders and thinkers these essays explore the question from many different perspectives Reading these essays enriches our inner lives and enlivens our contemplative imaginations Surely this is the deepest ecology possible As a special bonus at the end of each essay is a short poem on nature and the sacred taken from various traditions

Views of Nature and Dualism Thomas

John Hastings, Knut-Willy Sæther, 2024-01-19 In the face of the anthropogenic threats to the singular planetary habitat we share with other human beings and non human species humanities scholars feel a renewed sense of urgency 1 to acknowledge the ways our species has funded particular histories of environmental exploitation alienation and collapse 2 to unpack inherited assumptions that impact our views of nature and interspecies relations and 3 to suggest ways of thinking and acting that seek to repair the damage and promote mutual flourishing for all of earth inhabitants This volume brings together scholars in philosophy theology and religion who take up this urgent ethical task from a broad range of perspectives and locations

The Nature of Things Jeffrey R. Anderson, 2012-04-27 Were all asking the same kinds of questions with the same goal in mind How do I fit in How can I navigate life gracefully How can my life be more satisfying How can I experience more love joy awe and wonder By learning understanding and applying the inherent wisdom that we find in the natural world we can connect with people and with our planet with our own hearts and souls and create a life that is not only better for us as individuals but perhaps together create a world that works for everyone With simplicity and humor Jeff shows how the wisdom of nature can free us untangle us from the complexity of our ego driven lives This is the wisdom of the ordinary for each of us to treasure Allow these clear and profound teachings to awaken you so that you can glimpse the divine that is within you and all around

Llewellyn Vaughan Lee Ph D Sufi teacher and author like a friendly sharing across a backyard fence or an informal exchange of insights across a cup of coffee Jeff Anderson has written about the times we live in the challenges we face and the kind of life and consciousness that may help us not just survive but prosper

Nature Prose Dominic Head, 2022-08-15

Nature Prose seeks to explain the popularity and appeal of contemporary writing about nature This book intervenes in key areas of contemporary debate about literature and the environment and explores the enduring appeal of writing about nature during an ecological crisis Using a range of international examples with a focus on late twentieth and early twenty first century writing from Britain and the US Dominic Head argues that nature writing contains formal effects which encapsulate our current ecological dilemma and offer a fresh resource for critical thinking The environmental crisis has injected a fresh urgency into nature writing along with a new piquancy for those readers seeking solace in the nonhuman or for those looking to change their habits in the face of ecological catastrophe However behind this apparently strong match between the aims of nature writers and the desires of their readers there is also a shared mood of radical uncertainty and insecurity The treatment and construction of nature in contemporary imaginative prose reveals some significant paradoxes beneath its dominant moods moods which are usually earnest sometimes celebratory sometimes prophetic or cautionary It is in these paradoxical moments that the contemporary ecological crisis is formally encoded in a progressive development of ecological consciousness from the late 1950s onwards Nature prose fiction and nonfiction is now contemporaneous with a defining time of crisis while also being formally fashioned by that context This is a mode of writing that emerges in a world in crisis but which is also in some ways in crisis itself With chapters on remoteness exclusivity abundance and rarity this book marks a turning point in how literary criticism engages with nature writing      Screening Nature Anat Pick,Guinevere

Narraway,2013-11-01 Environmentalism and ecology are areas of rapid growth in academia and society at large Screening Nature is the first comprehensive work that groups together the wide range of concerns in the field of cinema and the environment and what could be termed posthuman cinema It comprises key readings that highlight the centrality of nature and nonhuman animals to the cinematic medium and to the language and institution of film The book offers a fresh and timely intervention into contemporary film theory through a focus on the nonhuman environment as principal register in many filmic texts Screening Nature offers an extensive resource for teachers undergraduate students and more advanced scholars on the intersections between the natural world and the worlds of film It emphasizes the cross cultural and geographically diverse relevance of the topic of cinema ecology      Into Russian Nature Alan D. Roe,2020 National parks are perhaps the most recognized environmental protection institution in the world and have long attracted the interest of historians This is the first academic work on Russian national parks It spans from the years before the Great October Revolution to the present and examines movements to establish national parks from European Russia to Siberia and the Far East It is a story of grandiose visions in which Russian environmentalists conceived of ways to alter the state s relationship to nature and of demoralizing disappointment when the lofty ambitions of different park visionaries fell far short of their hopes

Landscape, Nature, and the Sacred in Byzantium Veronica della Dora,2016-02-04 Explores Byzantine perceptions of creation and different types of natural environments and the principles underpinning such perceptions      Nature's

Principles Jan Faye,Paul Needham,Uwe Scheffler,Max Urchs,2005-07-22 One of the most basic problems in the philosophy of science involves determining the extent to which nature is governed by laws This volume presents a wide ranging overview of the contemporary debate and includes some of its foremost participants It begins with an extensive introduction describing the historical logical and philosophical background of the problems dealt with in the essays Among the topics treated in the essays is the relationship between laws of nature and causal laws as well as the role of ceteris paribus clauses in scientific explanations Traditionally the problem of the unity of science was intimately connected to the problem of understanding the unity of nature This fourth volume of Logic Epistemology and the Unity of Science tackles these problems as part of our consideration of the most fundamental aspects of scientific understanding      Energy Humanities Imre Szeman,Dominic

Boyer,2017-04-22 Energy humanities is a field of scholarship that like medical humanities and digital humanities before it overcomes traditional boundaries between the disciplines and between academic and applied research Like its predecessors energy humanities highlights the essential contribution that the insights and methods of the human sciences can make to areas of study and analysis once thought best left to the natural sciences This isn t a case of the humanities simply helping their cross campus colleagues to learn the mechanics of communication so that they might better articulate their ideas. Rather, these fields of scholarship are ones that demonstrate how the scale and complexity of the issues being explored demand insights and approaches that transcend old school disciplinary boundaries. Energy Humanities A Reader offers a carefully curated selection of the best and most influential work in energy humanities that has appeared over the past decade. To stay true to the diverse work that makes up this emergent field, selections range from anthropology and geography to philosophy, history and cultural studies to recent energy focused interventions in art and literature. The three readers all agree that this is an important ground breaking collection of work. Provided by publisher.

The Intrinsic Value of Nature Leena Vilkkä, 1997. What is intrinsic value? What is the origin of value? Are people always superior to nature? This book is a philosophical analysis of the human relationship to the non human world. It is a pioneering study of the philosophy of nature conservation in relation to the discussion of intrinsic value. Vilkkä develops a naturalistic or naturocentric theory of value that is based on ethical extensionism and pluralism. Vilkkä analyzes natural values and environmental attitudes: zoocentrism, biocentrism and ecocentrism. This book forms a taxonomy for nature having intrinsic value. The theory of intrinsic value is based on naturocentric and naturogenic values. The book questions the thesis of weak anthropocentrism that denies the existence of naturogenic values. In Vilkkä's theory, animals and nature are the origin of value. She defends the existence of zoogenic and biogenic values in the non human world and discusses the possibility of ecogenic value: nature as a whole having value independent of human or animal minds. Vilkkä analyzes the goodness and rights of nature, the problem of priorities and ecological humanism. A naturocentric recommendation is that the well being of animals and nature should have priority over human values at least in some real decision contexts. Ecological humanism recommends an attitude of respect for people, animals and nature. The book includes an extensive glossary, index and bibliography.

The Pleasures of the Imagination John Brewer, 2013. The Pleasures of the Imagination examines the birth and development of English high culture in the eighteenth century. It charts the growth of a literary and artistic world fostered by publishers, theatrical and musical impresarios, picture dealers and auctioneers and presented to the public in coffee houses, concert halls, libraries, theatres and pleasure gardens. In 1660 there were few professional authors, musicians and painters, no public concert series, galleries, newspaper critics or reviews. By the dawn of the nineteenth century they were all apart of the cultural life of the nation. John Brewer's enthralling book explains how this happened and recreates the world in which the great works of English eighteenth century art were made. Its purpose is to show how literature, painting, music and the theatre were communicated to a public increasingly avid for them. It explores the alleys and garrets of Grub Street rummages the shelves of bookshops and libraries peers through printsellers shop windows and into artists studios and slips behind the scenes at Drury Lane and Covent Garden It takes us out of Gay and Boswell s London to visit the debating clubs poetry circles ballrooms concert halls music festivals theatres and assemblies that made the culture of English provincial towns and shows us how the national landscape became one of Britain s greatest cultural treasures It reveals to us a picture of English artistic and literary life in the eighteenth century less familiar but more suprising more various and more convincing than any we have seen before
