On Art Connoisseurship:

On Art and Connoisseurship Max J. Friedlander, 2011-11-29 AMONG art historians of today there is hardly anyone who enjoys a position comparable to that of Dr Max J Friedlander. He is universally recognized as being probably the greatest living expert, notably of course on the early Netherlandish and German masters and in normal times not a day passed on which pictures were not submitted to him for opinion from all parts of the world. But he is much more than the mere accomplished expert, worried without respite by people eager for his verdict on their possessions: the list of his writings, all of them revealing the outlook of the born historian, makes a truly imposing series culminating in his monumental History of Early Netherlandish Painting, issued from 1924 onwards in fourteen substantial volumes. And for a long time the whole of this ceaseless activity had for its background Dr Friedlander's connection with the Berlin Picture Gallery and Print Room, their marvellous growth during the period in question owes in fact an enormous debt to the distinguished scholar whose career as an official came to an end in 1933 when Dr Friedlander relinquished the post as Head of the great Picture Gallery to which he had been appointed as Wilhelm von Bode's successor. It is indeed the very aroma of that institution in its best days which pervades the whole activity of one of the greatest of those who stand to it in the relation of at once alumnus and creator.

On Art and Connoisseurship Max J. Friedländer, Tancred Borenius, 1946      Art Market and Connoisseurship Anna Tummers, Koenraad Jonckheere, 2008 The question of whether seventeenth century painters such as Rembrandt and Rubens were exclusively responsible for the paintings later sold under their names has caused many a heated debate. Despite the rise of scholarship on the history of the art market, much is still unknown about the ways in which paintings were produced, assessed, priced and marketed during this period, which leads to several provocative questions: did contemporary connoisseurs expect masters such as Rembrandt to paint works entirely by their own hand? Who was credited with the ability to assess paintings as genuine? The contributors to this engaging collection, Eric Jan Sluijter, Hans Van Miegroet and Neil De Marchi, among them, trace these issues through the booming art market of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, arriving at fascinating and occasionally unexpected conclusions.

On Art and Connoisseurship Max Julius Friedlaender, Tancred Borenius, 1941      Spaces of Connoisseurship Alison Clarke, 2022-07-18 In Spaces of Connoisseurship Alison Clarke explores the who, where and how of judging Old Master paintings in the nineteenth century British art trade. She describes how the staff at family art dealers Thomas Agnew Sons, Agnew's and London's National Gallery took advantage of emerging technologies such as the railways and photography. Through encounters with pictures in a range of locations, both private and public, these art market actors could build up the visual memory and necessary expertise to compare artworks and judge them in terms of attribution, condition and beauty. Also explored are the display tactics adopted by both commercial outfit and art museum to showcase pictures once acquired. In a time of ever spiralling art prices, this book tackles the question of why some paintings are preferred over others and exactly how art experts reach their judgements.      art history and connoisseurship William George Constable,1938      The American Leonardo John Brewer,2009-10-05 In 1919 a returning World War I veteran named Harry Hahn and his French bride attempted to sell what they thought was a painting by Leonardo Da Vinci in New York Renowned art dealer Sir Joseph Duveen declared the picture La Belle Ferronni re a fake without ever seeing the canvas The Hahns sued Duveen for slander setting off a legal battle that would last for decades In The American Leonardo John Brewer traces the twisting path of the Hahn La Belle a painting of famously uncertain origin as he illuminates the workings of the twentieth century art market exploring such larger questions about the art world such as how attributions are made how they affect both the status and value of artworks and how the entire system of art dealers curators and connoisseurs authenticates works of art In the early twentieth century new methods of scientific analysis developed which meant that for the first time the critical eye of the connoisseur had to contend with an emerging array of scientific and forensic tests that however crude at their inception promised a degree of objectivity and reliability unattainable before Brewer shows how the tension between the two methods of attribution lay at the heart of the Hahn La Belle dispute which continues to this day The painting currently languishes in an Omaha storage vault awaiting the resolution of the most recent lawsuit For artists and art lovers collectors and curators and for anyone who s ever stood in front of a painting and wondered about its story The American Leonardo offers a discerning and entertaining view into the art world      Networks and Practices of Connoisseurship in the Global Eighteenth Century Valérie Kobi,Kristel Smentek,Chonja Lee,2023-12-31 The 18th century was the age of the connoisseur It was also an era of an expanding global consciousness born of accelerating trade and imperial conquest This volume puts into dialogue the consolidation of connoisseurship as an empirical mode of artistic analysis in Europe and Asia and the increasing exposure to different modes of artmaking facilitated by local and global networks over the course of the long 18th century Focusing on exchanges between India Japan China and Europe the contributors to this volume examine the complex and nuanced impacts on connoisseurial practice of encounters with artworks from different regions of the globe the international networks that made those encounters possible and the intricate transactions through which connoisseurial knowledge of art was generated Expansive focus on practices and networks in India Japan and Europe in the 18th century Complexities and asymmetries of connoisseurship in an expanding world      Connoisseurship Christina M. Anderson,Peter Stewart,2023 This collection of essays considers the concept of connoisseurship afresh by investigating its practice in familiar places such as Western art history while also incorporating a global perspective with Chinese numismatics and walnut collecting wine and coffee expertise the market for geological specimens and the resonances between Morellian connoisseurship and modern forensics These essays resonate with one another in surprising ways and create new dialogues about connoisseurship s meaning and application demonstrating that its practice can be both intuitive and scientific

Chaos and Cosmos Karen Lang, 2018-08-06 Writing in 1940 the prominent German art historian Erwin Panofsky asked How then is it possible to build up art history as a respectable scholarly discipline if its objects come into being by an irrational and subjective process In Chaos and Cosmos Karen Lang addresses the power of art to resist the pressures of the transcendental vantage point history Uncovering the intellectual and cultural richness of the early years of academic art history in Germany the period from the 1880s to 1940 she explores various attempts within art history to transform aesthetic phenomena chaos into the cosmos of a systematic unified field of inquiry Lang starts by examining Panofsky's approach to aesthetic phenomena in his early theoretical essays alongside Ernst Cassirer's contemporaneous publications on the substance and function of scientific concepts and on Einstein's theory of relativity She then turns to the subject of aesthetic judgment through a rereading of Kantian subjectivity and Kant's uneasy legacy in art history From here Lang considers the different organizing theories of symbolic form proposed by Aby Warburg and Cassirer as well as Goethe's inspiration for both Alois Riegl's notion of age value and Walter Benjamin's conceptions of the aura concluding with an extended examination of objectivity and the figure of the art connoisseur Extensively illustrated with works of art from the Enlightenment to the present day this venturesome book illuminates an intellectual legacy that has profoundly shaped the study of the history of art in ways that have until now been largely unacknowledged Addressing the interplay of chaos and cosmos in terms of history art history philosophy and epistemology Lang traces shifts in point of view in art history and the way these shifts change aesthetic objects into historical objects and even objects of knowledge Encyclopædia Britannica, Or, Dictionary of Arts, Sciences and General Literature Thomas Stewart Traill, 1859
