On Seven Mile Road:

On Seven Mile Road Nancy Marchenia Stevens,2003-10 In August of 1945 the Marchenia family took up residence in a home on Seven Mile Road on the East Side of Detroit It was a home with a potbellied stove and a generous front porch lilac bushes and shade trees It was a time when children spent their days flying kites and watching clouds and their evenings chasing fireflies and gazing at the stars It was a golden period of childhood On Seven Mile Road is a story about growing up in the forties and fifties It is a story about growing up in Detroit And yet it is much more than either of these It is a story about growing up at a time in America when life was simpler gentler when extended families lived close together when people had less material wealth but greater spiritual wealth Nancy Marchenia Stevens has written a moving memoir about a time that many of us remember and long to revive For her The memories of Seven Mile Road are my touchstone All of my life I have been writing this story in my head It is not my life story though telling it will reveal much about my life My story is about a family And it is my hope that from the bits and pieces woven together by characters and happenings a family will emerge my family the Marchenias
