Abstract. Bibliometric information retrieval in databases can employ different strategies. Commonly, queries are performed by searching in title, abstract and/or author keywords (author vocabulary). More advanced queries employ database keywords to search in a controlled vocabulary. Queries based on search terms can be augmented with their citing papers if a research field cannot be curtailed by the search query alone. Here, we present another strategy to discover the most important papers of a research field. A marker paper is used to reveal the most important works for the relevant community. All papers co-cited with the marker paper are analyzed using Reference Publication Year Spectroscopy (RPYS). For demonstration of the marker paper approach, density functional theory (DFT) is used as a research field. Comparisons between a prior RPYS on a publication set compiled using a keyword-based search in a controlled vocabulary and a co-citation RPYS (RPYS-CO) show very similar results. Similarities and differences are discussed.

Keywords: Bibliometrics, RPYS, RPYS-CO, marker paper, seminal papers, historical roots, DFT

1 Introduction

Information retrieval in databases can be performed using different routes. Commonly, searches are performed via search terms (author vocabulary) in the full-text or in certain sections of a paper (e. g., title, abstract, and/or author keywords). Some databases also offer controlled vocabulary (i. e., keywords assigned by the database producer) to be searched. Searches in author vocabulary often require a strategy which is called "interactive query formulation" and was extensively discussed by Wacholder [1]. This strategy was applied for example in Haunschild, Bornmann and Marx [2] and Wang, Pan, Ke, Wang and Wei [3] to analyze the literature about climate change. A search in controlled vocabulary often needs less search terms and less complicated queries. For example, Haunschild, Barth and Marx [4] used a rather concise search query in the controlled vocabulary of C<sup>A</sup>plus<sup>SM</sup> to analyze the literature about density functional theory (DFT), a widely used method in the field of computational chemistry.

Besides keyword searches, the citing papers of one specific key-paper (or a few key papers) can be used to retrieve fundamental literature, see e. g., Marx, Haunschild

Handbook to Writing Your Master's Thesis Peter K. Lynch EdD, Ryan C. Welch, MS, 2014-07-03 Perhaps the most daunting graduate school requirement is the development of an action research Master's thesis. This capstone task requires unprecedented amounts of time, energy, and verbiage. Designed to take stress out of the thesis writing equation, this student-friendly comprehensive handbook glides the reader through a 28-step process from developing a focal topic to defending a scholarly thesis. Framing each chapter as a one-week action assignment, the authors have broken down the process into manageable chunks to enable students/writers to achieve an immediate sense of completion at every step. By using this scaffolding approach, the authors encourage the student researcher to focus on one part of the process rather than the total, sometimes overwhelming final product. With the exception of the Review of the Literature section, which takes several weeks to complete, all other thesis sections can and should be timed out for seven days. The Authors' primary objective was to empower the student researcher to accomplish each of the steps in the process while never losing sight of the product that will help the children in their classrooms. Whether developing an Abstract or writing in-text citations, student researchers are guided throughout the nuances of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association's 6th Edition.
