

The background of the book cover is a detailed illustration of a cozy living room. On the left, a lamp with a white shade sits on a side table next to a fireplace with a striped blanket draped over the mantel. In the center, a large red book cover is the focal point. To the right, a fireplace with a striped blanket is visible, and a cat is curled up on the floor in the foreground. A small circular inset at the top center shows a person sitting in a chair.

The seven ladies befriend an escaped fugitive and apply their considerable detective skills to the frustration and edification of local police. Nina Gilfert was born with a love of words. She soon began to put them together in stories and poems. She now lives in Florida and writes a weekly column for The Daily Commercial newspaper of Leesburg. This is the second of three Seven Senior Sleuth books.

What does a murder that happened forty three years ago have to do with missing tourist Jennifer Martin. Agnes's partner in crime Eleanor Mason tags along Watson to her Holmes. Together they unearth clues. If only Eleanor would behave as although lovable she has a knack for getting into trouble by tangling with her rival Dorothy Alton or flirting with anyone male or female and gossiping.
