The Primary Afferent Neuron Wolfgang Zenker, Winfried L. Neuhuber, 2012-12-06 This book is based on contributions presented at the symposium The Primary Afferent Neuron A survey of recent morpho functional aspects held in Zurich on March 24th 1988 in connection with the 83rd Congregation of the German Anatomical Society Members of the Anatomical Society as well as non member researchers were invited to join a circle of specialists to discuss the topic of primary afferents In addition some aspects which had not been dealt with at the Symposium because of shortage of time are represented by invited reviews included in this volume As scientific research on the primary afferent neuron is so extensive it is impossible to take inventory of all the present activities on this subject This book attempts to provide an overview of various aspects of high actuality and in particular shows how morphological research contributes to our present day concepts of the primary afferent neuron Although fundamental knowledge on morphology and physiology of the spinal ganglion cell seems to be well established many questions of the past and the present still await conclusive answers Thus many question marks determine the conceptual layout of this book Fig 1 First the peripheral sensory field and in particular the peripheral sensory receptors are discussed

The Control of Eye Movements Paul Bach-y-Rita, 2012-12-02 The Control of Eye Movements presents the proceedings of the Symposium on the Control of Eye Movements organized by the Smith Kettlewell Institute of Visual Sciences of the Pacific Medical Center and the Department of Visual Sciences of the University of the Pacific Graduate School of Medical Sciences San Francisco California November 10 11 1969 The book is organized into two parts Part I is devoted to presentations of anatomical physiological pharmacological psychological and clinical aspects of eye movements The material presented should provide a valuable reference source as well as increase awareness of the need for further investigation of many aspects of the basic physiology of eye movements Part II presents a series of papers dealing with models of various parts of the oculomotor system The modeling approach to control of eye movements is still in its infancy and the present work presents the first comprehensive survey of biophysical mathematical and engineering aspects of eye movement control Essentials of Pediatric

Goldsmith, 2009-05-21 One hundred stereotype maps glazed with the most exquisite human prejudice especially collected for you by Yanko Tsvetkov author of the viral Mapping Stereotypes project Satire and cartography rarely come in a single package but in the Atlas of Prejudice they successfully blend in a work of art that is both funny and thought provoking The book is based on Mapping Stereotypes Yanko Tsvetkov's critically acclaimed project that became a viral Internet sensation in 2009 A reliable weapon against bigots of all kinds it serves as an inexhaustible source of much needed argumentation and occasionally as a nice slab of paper that can be used to smack them across the face whenever reasoning becomes utterly impossible The Complete Collection version of the Atlas contains all maps from the previously published two volumes and adds twenty five new ones wrapping the best selling series in a single extended edition Diseases of the Nervous System, 1968

The Oxford Handbook of Eye Movements Simon Liversedge, Iain Gilchrist, Stefan Everling, 2011-08-18 In the past few years there has been an explosion of eye movement research in cognitive science and neuroscience The Oxford Handbook of Eye Movements provides the first comprehensive review of the entire field of eye movement research This book is the definitive reference work in this field

The New Handbook of Multisensory Processing Barry E. Stein, 2012-06-01

The major reference work for a rapidly advancing field synthesizes central themes reports on current findings and offers a blueprint for future research Scientists attempt to understand the physiology underlying our apprehension of the physical world was long dominated by a focus on the individual senses The 1980s saw the beginning of systematic efforts to examine interactions among different sensory modalities at the level of the single neuron And by the end of the 1990s a recognizable and multidisciplinary field of multisensory processes had emerged More recently studies involving both human and nonhuman subjects have focused on relationships among multisensory neuronal ensembles and their behavioral perceptual and cognitive correlates The New Handbook of Multisensory Processing synthesizes the central themes in this rapidly developing area reports on current findings and offers a blueprint for future research The contributions all of them written for this volume by leading experts reflect the evolution and current state of the field This handbook does more than simply review the field Each of the volume's eleven sections broadly surveys a major topic and each begins with a substantive and thought provoking commentary by the section editor that identifies the major issues being explored describes their treatment in the chapters that follow and sets these findings within the context of the existing body of knowledge Together the commentaries and chapters provide an invaluable guide to areas of general agreement unresolved issues and topics that remain to be explored in this fast moving field
