Serve City Interactive Urbanism:

Studies in Temporal Urbanism Fabian Neuhaus, 2011-08-04 This book is very much about what the name urbanTick literally says about the ticking of the urban the urban as we experience it everyday on the bus in the park or between buildings It is about the big orchestrated mass migration of commuters the seasonal blossoms of the trees along the walkway and the frequency of the stamping rubbish eater trucks It is also not to forget about climate infrastructure opening hours term times parking meters time tables growing shadows and moon light But most of all it is about how all this is experienced by citizens on a daily basis and how they navigate within this complex structure of patterns The content of this book is based on the content of the urbanTick blog between 2008 2010 One year blogging about this topic brought together a large collection of different aspects and thoughts It is not at all a conclusive view the opposite might be the case it is an exploratory work in progress while trying to capture as many facets of the topic as possible Sustainable Intercultural

Urbanism at the Service of the African City of Tomorrow Esoh Elamé, 2022-06-03 Most African cities are human settlements that lack the systems needed for effective land use planning In fact the disorganization that prevails has become so complex that the concept of urbanism itself has been called into question This book highlights the need to restore urban planning in African cities through sustainable development and interculturality Furthermore it addresses the balance of power between urban planning and sustainable development and explores the historical and postcolonial aspects of urban planning in African cities A case study focusing on the development of sustainable cities and neighborhoods in the M Zab Valley is also included as well as topics such as urban greening climatic threats and the problem of state agro industrial land transactions which compete with sustainable urban planning Sustainable Intercultural Urbanism at the Service of the African City of Tomorrow is a valuable reference for researchers and practitioners interested in urban issues in African cities These cities in particular sub Saharan cities have long been excluded from any discourse on sustainable cities and urban planning this book places the focus on these cities and acknowledges their varied urban realities The intention is to spark a new debate on sustainable urban planning in African cities based on intercultural sustainable urbanism which is key to thinking about and building ecological intercultural compact intelligent and postcolonial cities In the Bubble John Thackara, 2006-02-17

How to design a world in which we rely less on stuff and more on people We re filling up the world with technology and devices but we ve lost sight of an important question What is this stuff for What value does it add to our lives So asks author John Thackara in his new book In the Bubble Designing for a Complex World These are tough questions for the pushers of technology to answer Our economic system is centered on technology so it would be no small matter if tech ceased to be an end in itself in our daily lives Technology is not going to go away but the time to discuss the end it will serve is before we deploy it not after We need to ask what purpose will be served by the broadband communications smart materials wearable computing and connected appliances that we re unleashing upon the world We need to ask what impact all this stuff will have on our daily lives Who will look after it and how In the Bubble is about a world based less on stuff and more on people Thackara describes a transformation that is taking place now not in a remote science fiction future it s not about as he puts it the schlock of the new but about radical innovation already emerging in daily life We are regaining respect for what people can do that technology can t In the Bubble describes services designed to help people carry out daily activities in new ways Many of these services involve technology ranging from body implants to wide bodied jets But objects and systems play a supporting role in a people centered world The design focus is on services not things And new principles above all lightness inform the way these services are designed and used At the heart of In the Bubble is a belief informed by a wealth of real world examples that ethics and responsibility can inform design decisions without impeding social and technical innovation

Comparative Urbanism Jennifer Robinson, 2022-07-01 COMPARATIVE URBANISM Comparative Urbanism fully transforms the scope and purpose of urban studies today distilling innovative conceptual and methodological tools The theoretical and empirical scope is astounding enlightening emboldening Robinson peels away conceptual labels that have anointed some cities as paradigmatic and left others as mere copies She recalibrates overly used theoretical perspectives resurrects forgotten ones long in need of a dusting off and brings to the fore those often marginalised Robinson s approach radically re distributes who speaks for the urban and which urban conditions shape our theoretical understandings With Comparative Urbanism in our hands we can start the practice of urban studies anywhere and be relevant to any number of elsewheres Jane M Jacobs Professor of Urban Studies Yale NUS College Singapore How to think the multiplicity of urban realities at the same time across different times and rhythmic arrangements how to move with the emergences and stand stills with conceptualisations that do justice to all things gathered under the name of the urban How to imagine comparatively amongst differences that remain different individualised outcomes but yet exist in common No book has so carefully conducted a specifically urban philosophy on these matters capable of beginning and ending anywhere AbdouMalig Simone Senior Research Fellow Urban Institute University of Sheffield The rapid pace and changing nature of twenty first century urbanisation as well as the diversity of global urban experiences calls for new theories and new methodologies in urban studies In Comparative Urbanism Tactics for Global Urban Studies Jennifer Robinson proposes grounds for reformatting comparative urban practice and offers a wide range of tactics for researching global urban experiences The focus is on inventing new concepts as well as revising existing approaches Inspired by postcolonial and decolonial critiques of urban studies she advocates for an experimental comparative urbanism open to learning from different urban experiences and to expanding conversations amongst urban scholars across the globe The book features a wealth of examples of comparative urban research concerned with many dimensions of urban life A range of theoretical and philosophical approaches ground an understanding of the radical revisability and emergent nature of concepts of the urban Advanced students urbanists and scholars will be prompted to compose comparisons which trace the interconnected and relational
