Tomarken,2002 The study addresses the following kinds of questions Why does genre need ethics Why does ethics need genre How is ethics related to and distinguished from ideology as currently used in cultural studies How does a generic ethical method come to terms with history and historical change How is a generic ethical method related to religion Does genre reinforce the concept of the ethical agent This book will therefore have a broad audience including scholars whose fields range from the Renaissance to the present theorists and philosophers whose interests include ethics cultural studies and ideologies and educationists pursuing methods for graduates and undergraduates The autobiographical introduction serves as the hook as our creative writers say for this audience Generically it is experimental being at once scholarly 1962 Hogarth and his Place in European Art attempts to convey the historical relevance both in its native and European context of perhaps the most outstanding English painter of the eighteenth century Dr Antal applies his method of establishing the close relationship between the political and social history and the arts and letters of the period Thus the book goes far beyond the limits of art historical appreciation It gives a panoramic picture of the first half of the eighteenth century in England with all its social literary and artistic connotations He shows how England which during those years became both politically and economically the most advanced country in Europe could provide in Hogarth in spite of the slender native tradition the most progressive artistic personality of his time whose work revealed the views and tastes of a broad cross section of society He traces Hogarth s stylistic origins back to their European sources and analyses his impact on contemporary European and English art as well as the influence he exerted on generations to come This book will be of interest to students of art art history literature and European history Library Catalog of the Metropolitan Museum of Art,
