Miles from Home: the Journey of a Lifetime Phillip L. Woods, 2015-04-03 Miles From Home is a deeply personal story and a narrative of the American dream Born to a devoted mother and severely alcoholic father Phillip Lee Woods was sent as an 11 year old to live with a taciturn grandfather on a lonely farm in Indiana's countryside Doing backbreaking chores from daybreak to dark and walking a long deserted road to catch the bus Woods' school years were marked by toil embarrassment about his circumstances and a yearning to reunite with his mother and sister Living in an isolated farmhouse with no indoor plumbing no phone and little heat Woods and his grandfather helped each other to survive These challenging early experiences helped the young Woods become a determined perseverant man Woods started out as a postal clerk and despite not having a college education he went on to found his own successful insurance business Woods Grooms Inc Along the way he married his favorite post office patron and had a family of his own His climb to ultimate success was riddled with many failures including near bankruptcies and unsuccessful forays into raising horses and running a flight school But more than a story of the American dream of a man who like many started with nothing and went on to achieve success and serve his community this is a love story not just between Woods and his wife of more than 50 years but between Woods and America At the age of 66 he decided to walk across the country from east to west determined to see its roads again close up and meet its inhabitants in person He wanted to see the country not as politicians and lobbyists were formulating it but see it as a land of individuals who had their own values their own opinions In 2010 Woods again walked across the United States from north to south a testament to what a stout heart a devoted wife and a few good pairs of sneakers could accomplish This is the tale of a long winding journey Readers of Woods' story respond to the at times heartbreakingly honest narrative to the tale of a life of struggle triumphs failures and tragedies but most of all they are inspired by the can-do spirit of a man who insists we all keep moving

Embracing Life Again After the Death of a Spouse Dr Anniekie Ravhudzulo, 2011-01-12 When someone we love dies our whole world is knocked off balance One of the most common and yet difficult feelings you experience is isolation It seems no one understands what you are going through And many of us are so busy you don't take the time to fully grieve and therefore heal from your losses It is very true that people who are grieving often feel extremely tired because the process of grieving usually requires physical and emotional energy The grief you are feeling is not just for the person who died but also for the unfulfilled wishes and plans for the relationship with the person Death often reminds most of the people of past losses or separations Remember there are a number of conditions that can make it harder for you as a person to successfully make it through the grief process For example sudden losses are harder to deal with than ones that have been anticipated With anticipated losses the knowledge that a loss will occur allows people to prepare both by feeling grief before the fact of the loss and also by planning ways to minimize the negative impact of the loss when it does occur The loss of a spouse lover child parent or best friend is usually more deeply felt than the loss of more distant relations and friends This is because such central relationships have long and deeply felt histories and an intensity of attachment that does not occur with more distant relationships Central relationships are more deeply and significantly knitted into the grieving persons sense of self and thus leave a bigger hole in the grieving persons sense of self when they are lost I discovered that when things are going badly whether in the family or work environment most of us strive mightily to improve our situations But what if the way to overcome a series of losses and failures is just to sink into them We all go through trials and tribulations Everyone has difficult situations in their life It is the way we look at them and the way we handle those situations I believe it is the struggle we must endure to gain the strength needed to break through the barriers With every victory comes the strength we need to overcome the obstacles and move forward Most people today give up easily because of what you may call emotional downturn This book in your hand has been written and carefully thought out with you in mind It has been written to bring you out of your sociological pit and emotional defeat I therefore gladly recommend this book to your reading that you may be built in His grace I believe that God will never give you more than you can handle You often wonder how some people cope with their situations in life I often hear people saying I dont think I could deal with that but we dont know what strength lies within us until the time comes to face the challenge The harder the struggle the sweeter the victory No test no rewards

The Life, Exile and Conversations with Napoleon Emmanuel-Auguste-Dieudonné Las Cases, 2020-12-17

This edition in four volumes is a record of Napoleon's last years spent on the island of Saint Helena documented by comte de Las Cases, Napoleon's servant and unofficial secretary in exile. Las Cases began his journal on June 20, 1815, two days after Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo and continued it until his expulsion from St. Helena on orders of the island's governor, Hudson Lowe, at the end of the following year. The core of the work transcribes Las Cases' near-daily conversations with the former Emperor on his life, his career, his political philosophy, and the conditions of his exile. The work entered the popular imagination as something like Napoleon's own personal and political testament and, as such, became a founding text in the development of the Napoleon cult and the ideology of Bonapartism.
