Murder And Masculinity Violent Fictions Of Twentieth Century Latin America:

Murder and Masculinity Rebecca E. Biron, 2000 Rebecca Biron breaks new ground in this study of masculinity violence and the strategic construction of collective political identities in twentieth century Latin American fiction By engaging current sociological psychoanalytic and feminist theories Murder and Masculinity analyzes the cliché of proving virility through violence against women Biron develops her argument through close readings of five works Jorge Luis Borges's La intrusa Armonía Somers's El despojo Clarice Lispector's A Maca no Escuro Manuel Puig's The Buenos Aires Affair and Reinaldo Arenas's El Asalto Although men murdering women is often interpreted as nothing more than machista misogyny Biron argues that the five narratives addressed in this book show that healed masculinities are essential to the achievement of cultural identity and political autonomy in Latin America The introduction to this study deftly situates Biron's work in relation to previous theoretical arguments on the social and political dimensions of Latin American writing The five subsequent chapters offer superb analyses of the individual texts Like their male protagonists who experiment with the psychological and legal extremes of gender division these narratives risk nonconformity to the laws of genre in their quest for liberation from violent social and literary conventions In combining elements of detective stories crime narratives psychological case studies and magical or grotesque realism they offer metafictional commentary on a network of discourses that confuses images of masculinity national identity and political autonomy in postcolonial Latin America Encyclopedia

Women's Writing Maria Encarnacion Lopez, Stephen M. Hart, 2022 How do contemporary female authors in Latin America tackle gender violence in their writings This book analyses the portrayal of violence against women in the works of ten contemporary Latin American female authors Alejandra Jaramillo Morales Laura Restrepo Ena Lucia Portela Wendy Guerra Selva Almada Claudia Pineiro Diamela Eltit Carla Guelfenbein Lydia Cacho and Fernanda Melchor Governments in Latin America have routinely failed to protect women from abuse threats censorship repressive policies on reproduction rights forced displacement sex trafficking disappearances and femicides and this book beats a new path through these burning issues by drawing on the knowledges encapsulated by sociology as much as the visions articulated by literature Through an exploration of works published in the twenty first century by women writers from Argentina Chile Colombia Cuba and Mexico

this volume reconceptualises positions of privilege and power in the region and provides new readings about the meaning of gender sexuality violence and the female body in contemporary Latin America The aim of this book is to raise awareness of the daily threat of violence against women in Latin America underline the importance of the voice of Latin American women within that daily struggle and encourage governments organisations and institutions in Latin America and the Caribbean to take gender violence seriously and fight to secure peace and social equality for all women in the modern world and limitations of different theoretical frameworks and concepts relevant to the task of producing gendered readings including Connell's world gender order and hegemonic masculinity as well as the cult of virility as characterised by Still and Worton Chela Sandoval's decolonial love and methodology of the oppressed and Beasley Murray's posthegemony This book was originally published as a special issue of Iberian and Latin American Studies Identity, Nation, Discourse Claire Taylor, 2009-01-14 This volume explores women's literary and cultural production in Latin America and suggests how such works engage with discourses of identity nationhood and gender Including contributions by several prominent Latin American scholars themselves it seeks to provide a vital insight into the analysis and reception of the works in a local context and foster debate between Latin American and metropolitan academics The book is divided into two sections Women and Nationhood and Models and Genres The first section comprises six chapters which examines women's responses to and attempts to carve out space within national discourses in a Latin American context Spanning the nineteenth century to the present day the chapters offer an insight into the ways in which Latin American women have constructed themselves as modern subjects of the nation and made use of the ambiguous spaces created by modernization and national discourses The section starts firstly with a focus on the Southern Cone covering Chile and Argentina and then moves geographically northward to Colombia and Bolivia The second section Models and Genres consists of six chapters that examine how women writers engage with and critically re-work existing literary discourses and paradigms Considering phenomena such as detective fiction fairy tales and classical mythological figures the chapters illustrate how these genres and models frequently coded as masculine are given new inflections both as a result of their deployment by women and as a result of their re-working in a Latin American context The Body as Capital Vinodh Venkatesh, 2015-12-10 Through economic liberalization and the untethering of labor and production markets masculinity as hegemon has entered a crisis stage Renegotiated labor and familial orders have triggered a widespread cultural renegotiation of how masculinity operates and is represented This holds especially true in Latin America Addressing this Vinodh Venkatesh uses contemporary Latin American literature to examine how masculinity is constructed and conceived The Body as Capital centers socioeconomic and political concerns anxieties and paradigms on the male anatomy and on the matrices of masculinities presented in fiction Developing concepts such as the market of masculinities and the transnational theater of masculinities the author explains how contemporary fiction centers the male body and masculine expressions as key components in the relationship between culture space and global tensile forces Venkatesh includes novels by canonical and newer writers from Mexico Central America the Caribbean Peru and Chile He focuses on texts produced after 1990 coinciding with what has popularly been termed the neoliberal experiment In addition to probing well known novels such as La fiesta del Chivo and La mujer habitada and their accompanying body of criticism The Body as Capital defines and examines several masculine tropes that will be of interest to scholars of contemporary Latin American literature and gender studies Ultimately Venkatesh argues for a more holistic approximation of discursive gender that will feed into other angles of criticism forging a new path in the critical debates over gender and sexuality in Latin American writing

Hyner, 2009-03-26 In Forces of Nature the authors investigate the relationships between the natural world and gender and sexuality The authors explore the frameworks within which femininity and nature have been constructed as well as the impact nature has had on our understandings of masculinity homosexuality and heterosexuality For some writers nature has restorative powers for others nature embodies violence and destruction Yet one common thread runs across all of the chapters in this collection nature and animals can not be separated from the human experience Forces of Nature brings to light the intimate connection humans have with the natural world and provides students and scholars with innovative readings of both canonical and noncanonical texts

Citizenship and Crisis in Contemporary Brazilian Literature L. Lehnen, 2013-04-10 Considering how literary texts address the transformations that Brazil has undergone since its 1985 transition to democracy this study proposes that Brazilian contemporary literature is informed by the struggle for social civil and cultural rights and that literary production has created spaces for historically disenfranchised communities

The Effects of the Nation Carl Good, John V. Waldron, 2009 What is the effect of a nation In this age of globalization is it dead dying or only dormant The essays in this groundbreaking volume use the arts in Mexico to move beyond the national and the global to look at the activity of a community continually re-creating itself within and beyond its own borders Mexico is a particularly apt focus partly because of the vitality of its culture partly because of its changing political identity and partly because of the impact of borders and borderlessness on its national character The ten essays collected here look at a wide range of aesthetic productions especially literature and the visual arts that give context to how art and society interact Steering a careful course between the nostalgia of nationalism and the insensitivity of globalism these essays examine modernism and postmodernism in the Mexican setting Individually they explore the incorporation of historical icons of vanguardism and of international influence From Diego Rivera to Elena Garro from the Tlateloco massacre to the Chiapas rebellion from mass market fiction to the film Aliens the contributors view the many sides of Mexican life as relevant to the creation of a constantly shifting national culture Taken together the essays look both backward and forward at the evolving effect of the Mexican nation

The Boom Femenino in Mexico Nuala Finnegan, Jane E. Lavery, 2010-04-16 The Boom Femenino in Mexico Reading Contemporary Women's Writing is a collection of essays that focuses on literary production by women in Mexico over the last three decades In its exploration of the boom femenino phenomenon the book traces the history of the earlier boom in Latin American culture and investigates the implications of the use of the same term in the context of contemporary women's writing from Mexico In this way it engages critically with the cultural historical and literary significance of the term illuminating the concept for a wide range of readers It is clear that the entry of so many women writers into an arena traditionally reserved for men has prompted discussion around concepts such as women's writing and the very definition of literature itself Many of the contributors grapple with the theoretical tensions that such debates provoke offering an important opportunity to think critically about the texts produced during this period and the ways in which they have impacted on the Mexican and international cultural spheres The project is comprehensive in its scope and for the first time brings together scholars from Mexico the U S and Europe in a transnational forum The book posits that despite certain aesthetic and thematic commonalities the increased output by women writers in Mexico cannot be appraised as a unified literary movement Instead it embraces a wide range of different generic forms and the subjects under study in the essays in the book include the best selling work of Angeles Mastretta Elena Poniatowska and Laura Esquivel as well as the social and political preoccupations of journalists Rosanna Reguillo and Cristina Pacheco Contributors offer readings of the aesthetic visions of writers as diverse as Carmen Boullosa Ana Garc a Bergua and Eve Gil while other essays examine the nuances of contemporary gender identity in the work of Ana Clavel Sabina Berman Brianda Domecq and Mar a Luisa Puga There are essays devoted to poetry by indigenous Mayan women and an analysis of the complex place of poetry within the broader framework of literary production The problems that emerge as a result of literary cataloguing based on gender politics are also considered at length in a number of essays that take a panoramic view of literary production over the period Various critical approaches are employed throughout and the collection as a whole demonstrates that academic interest in Mexican women's writing of the boom femenino is thriving. Above all, the essays here provide a space in which the location of women within prevailing cultural paradigms in Mexico and their role in the mapping of power in evolving textual canons may be interrogated. It is clear from the collection that interest in such issues is still alive and that the debate is far from over.
