Readings from Mental Deficiency Ann Margaret Clarke, Alan Douglas Benson Clarke, 1978 Investigating Abnormal Behaviour Edgar Miller, Stephen Morley, 1986 Monographic Series Library of Congress, Understanding Cognitive Development Barbara Landau, 2016-09-17 The papers in this volume examine the state of the art in key areas of developmental cognitive neuroscience focusing on theoretically driven research on cognition and its development The past decade has seen an increasing number of empirical papers on the relationship between brain and cognitive development But despite the clearly burgeoning interest in this topic there is a relative paucity of work motivated by deep theoretical questions about the nature of cognition and its development Many papers are still in the mode of reporting brain cognition correlations with a focus on regional activations during brain imaging a useful approach but one that is limited with respect to its contributions to understanding the structure of cognition and its development The papers in this special issue of Cognitive Neuropsychology consider a number of domains and mechanisms in cognition including language number space faces reading memory and attention and represent the wealth of approaches and techniques that can be used to shed light on the nature of cognitive development in brain and mind These include cross species comparisons studies of development under experiential deprivation or genetic differences classical developmental experimentation and imaging techniques such as NIRS and fMRI which have recently been applied to developmental questions The combination of solid theorizing together with a broad range of approaches allows a critical but constructive look at the latest findings in the field relevant to answering enduring questions about cognition its development and its realization in the developing brain People with Profound & Multiple Learning Disabilities Penny Lacey, Carol Oyvry, 2013-11-26 First Published in 1999 This book is designed to be useful to practitioners working with children and adults with profound and multiple learning disabilities PMLD It was born out of a need for a practically based text book for participants on a course devoted to the study of PMLD but became a project to provide discussion of interest to anyone wishing to reflect on their work in this field It is hoped that the nineteen chapters in this book will provide a broad ranging resource for practitioners who work with children and or adults with PMLD in education health social care and voluntary settings and for those studying on advanced courses

Pressley, J. R. Levin, 2012-12-06 For some time now the study of cognitive development has been far and away the most active discipline within developmental psychology Although there would be much disagreement as to the exact proportion of papers published in developmental journals that could be considered cognitive 50% seems like a conservative estimate Hence a series of scholarly books devoted to work in cognitive development is especially appropriate at this time The Springer Series in Cognitive Development contains two basic types of books namely edited collections of original chapters by several authors and original volumes written by one author or a small group of authors The flagship for the Springer Series is a serial publication of the advances type carrying the subtitle Progress in Cognitive Development Research Each volume in the Progress sequence is strongly thematic in that it is limited to some well defined domain of cognitive developmental research e g logical and mathematical development development of learning All Progress volumes will be edited collections Editors of such collections upon consultation with the Series Editor may elect to have their books published either as contributions to the Progress sequence or as separate volumes All books written by one author or a small group of authors are being published as separate volumes within the series The British Library General Catalogue of Printed Books 1976 to 1982 British Library, 1983
