Refuge in Crestone Aaron Thomas Raverty, 2014-06-18 As globalization proceeds at an ever increasing and more unrelenting pace relations among the world's religions are taking on both a new visibility and a new urgency Christian theologians and others intent on innovative formulations in the theology of religions are making interreligious dialogue with non Christians a priority One way to promote creative scholarship in this quest is to tap into interdisciplinary resources and the author of this volume is uniquely qualified to do so since he holds graduate degrees in both theology and cultural anthropology Aaron Thomas Raverty's Refuge in Crestone A Sanctuary for Interreligious Dialogue elucidates how the praxis of interreligious dialogue as outlined in key Vatican documents in the Catholic Church could be better served by attending to the qualitative ethnographic methods of sociocultural anthropology Because the material behavioral and cognitive aspects of dialogue as revealed in daily life common social and political action religious experience and theological exchange are embedded in culture they are amenable to ethnographic analysis Using the unique multi religious Colorado site of Crestone and its environs as a fieldwork laboratory and self described Refuge for World Truths the ethnographic data gleaned from this project exemplify the creative interdisciplinary contributions of anthropology to theologizing It seeks to demonstrate using an empirical multi religious community as its focus how anthropology can support interreligious dialogue The results of such dialogue could not only assist the scholarly community by helping theologians arrive at new formulations in the burgeoning area of the theology of religions but might also serve the more practical goal of promoting peace as an alternative to violence in today's complex and sorely troubled world The Sacred Earth Brian Molyneaux, 1995

Religions and Extraterrestrial Life David A. Weintraub,2014-07-16 In the twenty first century the debate about life on other worlds is quickly changing from the realm of speculation to the domain of hard science Within a few years as a consequence of the rapid discovery by astronomers of planets around other stars astronomers very likely will have discovered clear evidence of life beyond the Earth Such a discovery of extraterrestrial life will change everything Knowing the answer as to whether humanity has company in the universe will trigger one of the greatest intellectual revolutions in history not the least of which will be a challenge for at least some terrestrial religions Which religions will handle the discovery of extraterrestrial life with ease and which will struggle to assimilate this new knowledge about our place in the universe Some religions as currently practiced appear to only be viable on Earth Other religions could be practiced on distant worlds but nevertheless identify both Earth as a place and humankind as a species of singular spiritual religious importance while some religions could be practiced equally well anywhere in the universe by any sentient beings Weintraub guides readers on an invigorating tour of the world s most widely practiced religions It reveals what if anything each religion has to say about the possibility that extraterrestrial life exists and how or if a particular religion would work on other planets in distant parts of the universe

Risk Management in a Hazardous Environment Michael Bollig,2010-05-10 A research focus on hazards risk perception and risk minimizing strategies is relatively new in the social and environmental sciences This volume by a prominent scholar of East African societies is a powerful example of this growing interest Earlier theory and research tended to describe social and economic systems in some form of equilibrium However recent thinking in human ecology evolutionary biology not to mention in economic and political theory has come to assign to risk a prominent role in predictive modeling of behavior It turns out that risk minimalization is central to the understanding of individual strategies and numerous social institutions It is not simply a peripheral and transient moment in a group s history Anthropologists interested in forager societies have emphasized risk management strategies as a major force shaping hunting and gathering routines and structuring institutions of food sharing and territorial behavior This book builds on some of these developments but through the analysis of quite complex pastoral and farming peoples and in populations with substantial known histories The method of analysis depends heavily on the controlled comparisons of different populations sharing some cultural characteristics but differing in exposure to certain risks or hazards The central questions guiding this approach are 1 How are hazards generated through environmental variation and degradation through increasing internal stratification violent conflicts and marginalization 2 How do these hazards result in damages to single households or to individual actors and how do these costs vary within one society 3 How are hazards perceived by the people affected 4 How do actors of different wealth social status age and gender try to minimize risks by delimiting the effect of damages during an on going crisis and what kind of institutionalized measures do they design to insure themselves against hazards preventing their occurrence or limiting their effects 5 How is risk minimization affected by cultural innovation and how can the importance of the quest for enhanced security as a driving force of cultural evolution be estimated      Whale Language
