Classifying the Divine Racheli Shalomi-Hen, 2000 In recent years cognitive aspects of the Egyptian writing system were studied and the importance of the determinatives as category makers and as a reflection of the ancient Egyptian mind was realised This study offers a fresh look at the divine determinatives and the category they form It focuses on a group of five divine determinatives in Spell 335 of the Coffin Texts and Chapter 17 of the Book of the Dead After discussing the transmission and themes of the texts as well as theories of categorisation the author proceeds to analyse the divine category which the five divine determinatives form By identifying its prototypical members and by examining the relations between words and their divine determinatives this book provides some crucial and thought provoking insights into the Ancient Egyptian perception of the divine and is an important contribution to the understanding of the organisation of knowledge in general The book concludes with a collation table that displays all the references to words written with divine determinatives in the texts including hieroglyphic presentation of all the different variations of these words strains of intense cosmic love Poseidon's Paradise Elizabeth G. Birkmaier, 1892 Jungian Psychology in the East and West Konoyu Nakamura, Stefano Carta, 2021-07-29

It is well known that Jung's investigation of Eastern religions and cultures supplied him with an abundance of cross cultural comparative material useful to support his hypotheses of the existence of archetypes, the collective unconscious and other manifestations of psychic reality. However, the specific literature dealing with this aspect has previously been quite scarce. This unique edited collection brings together contributors writing on a range of topics that represent an introduction to the differences between Eastern and Western approaches to Jungian psychology. Readers will discover that one interesting feature of this book is the realization of how much Western Jungians are implicitly or explicitly inspired by Eastern traditions including Japanese and at the same time how Jungian psychology, the product of a Western author, has been widely accepted and developed by Japanese scholars and clinicians. Scholars and students of Jungian studies will find many new ideas, theories and practices gravitating around Jungian psychology generated by the encounter between East and West. Another feature that will be appealing to many readers is that this book may represent an introduction to Japanese philosophy and clinical techniques related to Jungian psychology.
