USN Submarine vs IJN Aircraft Carrier Mark Lardas, 2025-01-16 Fully illustrated this book pits US Navy submarines against the aircraft carriers of the Imperial Japanese Navy at the height of World War II Before World War II the world's navies envisioned the submarine as a tool to hunt and kill cruisers and capital ships aircraft carriers and battleships. Instead they became best known for their abilities as commerce raiders. Yet hunting capital ships remained an important auxiliary role for the US submarine force in World War II. Featuring specially commissioned artwork and mapping alongside carefully chosen archive illustrations, this absorbing study focuses on five revealing battles between US submarines and Japanese aircraft carriers during 1942-44. At first a combination of factors: bad torpedoes, poor US tactics and plain bad luck foiled every US submarine attack on a Japanese capital ship in 1942 and 1943. But over the space of six months in 1944, from June through November of that year, US submarines sank three of Japan's largest aircraft carriers as well as a battleship. Thereafter Japanese capital ships clung to port or sheltered waters beyond the reach of submarines. In this book Mark Lardas explains how the technologies and procedures employed by both sides helped to determine the victor in five revealing clashes from the battle of Midway in June 1942 to the sinking of Shinano, the largest warship sunk by a submarine in November 1944.

During the Pacific leg of World War II, the U.S. Navy struck an astounding blow to the Japanese: a defeat which would become one of the greatest David and Goliath stories in the history of warfare. Japan's Shinano was a mammoth 72,000-ton aircraft carrier equipped with a huge arsenal of guns and carrying some 4,000 men. Yet a small U.S. submarine, the Archer Fish, less than a thirtieth the size of Shinano and carrying just 82 men, managed to sink the gargantuan vessel into the embattled Pacific with just four strategically placed torpedoes. Here vividly told by the Commander of the Archer Fish is the incredible true story of this crushing victory and a fascinating account of heroism history and warfare     Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals ,1987     World War II at Sea Myron J. Smith,1990-02     USS Pampanito Gregory F Michno,2016-01-12 Most World War II submarine stories are glorifications of war written by submarine captains about their own boats But the USS Pampanito was not a typical submarine The sub and its crew caused plenty of destruction but they found the pinnacle of their honor and fame in a dramatic sea rescue Gregory F Michno relates the experiences of the crewmen both enlisted men and officers who served on the USS Pampanito The Pampanito story begins with the boat s construction in 1943 continues through its six combat missions and concludes with its decommissioning after the war in 1945 The heart of the book is the September 12 1944 attack on a Japanese convoy carrying English and Australian POWs from the Burma Siam Railway of Bridge on the River Kwai fame to prison camps in Japan The Pampanito helped sink two of the prison ships unwittingly killing hundreds of Allied soldiers but then returned to rescue the survivors The crew picked a record seventy three men from the sea     Bibliography of Nautical Books ,1997     Yankee ,1987-02     Shinano! Joseph F.
