Christopher Marlowe the Craftsman M.L. Stapleton,2016-05-23 Contributions to this volume explore the idea of Marlowe as a working artist in keeping with John Addington Symonds characterization of him as a sculptor poet Throughout the body of his work including not only the poems and plays but also his forays into translation and imitation a distinguished company of established and emerging literary scholars traces how Marlowe conceives an idea shapes and refines it then remakes and remodels it only to refashion it further in his writing process These essays necessarily overlap with one another in the categories of lives stage and page which signals their interdependent nature regarding questions of authorship theater and performance history as well as interpretive issues within the works themselves The contributors interpret and analyze the disputed facts of Marlowe s life the textual difficulties that emerge from the staging of his plays the critical investigations arising from analyses of individual works and their relationship to those of his contemporaries The collection engages in new ways the controversies and complexities of its subject s life and art It reflects the flourishing state of Marlowe studies as it shapes the twenty first century conception of the poet and playwright as master craftsman      Marlowe and His Circle, a Biographical Survey, by Frederick S. Grande by contrast takes Marlowe on his own terms and demonstrates how he achieves his notorious moral ambiguity through the rhetorical technique of dilation or amplification All of Marlowe s plays end in the conventional tragic way with death But each play as well as Hero and Leander repeatedly evokes the reader s expectations of a tragic end only to defer them dilating the moment of pleasure so that the protagonists can dally before the law of tragedy
