Married to a Computer Herbert I. Kavet,1993      American Idle Annette Nierobisz,Dana Sawchuk,Dana Sawchuk,Annette Marie Nierobisz,2025-05-13 In American Idle sociologists Annette Nierobisz and Dana Sawchuk report their findings from interviews with sixty two mostly white collar workers who experienced late career job loss in the wake of the Great Recession Without the benefits of planned retirement or time horizons favorable to recouping their losses these employees experience an array of outcomes from hard falls to soft landings Notably the authors find that when reflecting on the effects of job loss fruitless job searches and the overall experience of unemployment participants regularly called on the frameworks instilled by neoliberalism Invoking neoliberal rhetoric these older Americans deferred to businesses need to prioritize bottom lines accepted the shift toward precarious employment or highlighted the importance of taking initiative and maintaining a positive mindset in the face of structural obstacles Even so participants also recognized the incompatibility between neoliberalism s one size fits all solutions and their own situations this disconnect led them to consider their experiences through competing frameworks and to voice resistance to aspects of neoliberal capitalism Employing a life course sociology perspective to explore older workers precarity in an age of rising economic insecurity Nierobisz and Sawchuk shed light on a new wrinkle in American aging      Working in Restructured Workplaces Daniel B. Stuber,2011-07-16 To date scholars in higher education have examined the ways in which students experiences in the classroom and the human capital they attain impact social class inequalities In this book Jenny

Stuber argues that the experiential core of college life the social and extra curricular worlds of higher education operates as a setting in which social class inequalities manifest and get reproduced As college students form friendships and get involved in activities like Greek life study abroad and student government they acquire the social and cultural resources that give them access to valuable social and occupational opportunities beyond the college gates Yet students social class backgrounds also impact how they experience the experiential core of college life structuring their abilities to navigate their campus s social and extra curricular worlds Stuber shows that upper middle class students typically arrive on campus with sophisticated maps and navigational devices to guide their journeys while working class students are typically less well equipped for the journey She demonstrates as well that students social interactions friendships and extra curricular involvements also shape and are shaped by their social class worldviews the ideas they have about their own and others class identities and their beliefs about where they and others fit within the class system By focusing on student social class worldviews this book provides insight into how identities and consciousness are shaped within educational settings Ultimately this examination of what happens inside the college gates shows how which higher education serves as an avenue for social reproduction while also providing opportunities for the contestation of class inequalities

Situating Sadness Janet M. Stoppard,Linda M. McMullen,2003-05-01 It is well known that depression occurs more often in women than in men It is the most commonly encountered mental health problem among women and ranks overall as one of the most important women s health problems Researchers have studied depression a great deal yet women s depression has rarely been the primary focus The contexts of women's lives which might contribute to their depression are not often addressed by the mental health establishment which tends to focus on biological factors. Situating Sadness sheds light on the influence of sociocultural factors such as economic distress, child bearing or child care difficulties or feelings of powerlessness which may play a significant role and points to the importance of context for understanding women's depression. Situating Sadness draws on research in the United States and other parts of the world to look at depression through the eyes of women exploring what being depressed is like in diverse social and cultural circumstances. It demonstrates that understanding depression requires close attention to the social context in which women become depressed.

Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, 2013. African American Children Shirley A. Hill, 1999-06-10. Shifting the focus from intervention with problem populations, this book targets the everyday socialization of African American children. African American Children is a comprehensive exploration of historical and contemporary patterns of parenting in black families. Historically, it focuses on how slavery, race, the racial caste system and the African American culture influenced the ways African Americans parented their children. This series of social forces seriously circumscribed the ability of African Americans to conform to the ideologies about the nature of children and the roles of parents that began to evolve in the early 20th century. In the context of growing diversity, Shirley A. Hill examines the work that African American parents do in raising their children and explores general child socialization patterns as well as parenting issues and challenges. Providing an analysis of the views, philosophies and parenting strategies of parents from a variety of social class backgrounds, African American Children combines qualitative and quantitative data collected to examine a broad overview of current theoretical debates about African American families as they relate to child socialization. Topics include discipline strategies, sexual socialization, teen sexuality, self-esteem, redefining physical attractiveness, gender roles and the role of the extended family and community. This book is an ideal supplemental text for advanced students in child development, family studies, sociology of the family as well as students in ethnic studies, multicultural counseling or gender studies.
