Marsa Matruh I:

Marsa Matruh I Donald White, 2002-12-31 The excavations of the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology at Marsa Matruh on Bates's Island which is located on the seacoast at the north of Egypt's western desert uncovered a small site with a metalworking workshop and nearby houses. The pottery found in the excavations indicates that this small Late Bronze Age settlement had links to several cultures: Cyprus, the Aegean, Egypt, the coast of western Asia, and the local Marmarican people. The results of the excavations are published in two volumes. This volume provides an overview of the excavations at the site, the Late Bronze Age and historical period occupations, and an introduction to the environmental morphology and history of the island. Marsa Matruh II Donald White, 2002 Marsa Matruh II Donald C.

Haggis, 2002-12-01 This volume of the report on the excavations at Marsa Matruh on Bates's Island which is located on the seacoast at the north of Egypt's western desert publishes the local and imported pottery, the crucibles, and other evidence for metalworking, the organic finds including ostrich egg shells, and the other discoveries made at the site. The pottery found in the excavations indicates that this small Late Bronze Age settlement had links to several cultures: Cyprus, the Aegean, Egypt, the coast of western Asia, and the local Marmarican people. Ethnographic Notes from Marsa Matruh Oric Bates, 1915

Bedouin, Settlers, and Holiday-makers Donald Powell Cole, Soraya Altorki, 1998 A new e-book edition of the classic study of the radical changes in lifestyle, trade, agriculture, and land use that have taken place on Egypt's northwest coast in the face of a huge influx of Nile Valley settlers and tourists. The arid regions impose strict limits upon human existence and activity. And yet, by respecting those limits, the flourishing and stable culture of these regions has for centuries been sustained. In the late twentieth century, however, forces such as modernization, globalization, and the politics and economics of nations became so great that major changes in the old ways. Roads in the Deserts of Roman Egypt Maciej Paprocki, 2019-07-19 Egypt under the Romans (30 BCE–3rd century CE) was a period when local deserts experienced an unprecedented flurry of activity. In the Eastern Desert, a marked increase in desert traffic came from imperial prospecting, quarrying activities, and caravans transporting wares to and from the Red Sea ports. In the Western Desert, resilient camels slowly became primary beasts of burden in desert travel, enabling caravaneers to lengthen daily marching distances across previously inhospitable dunes. Desert road archaeology has used satellite imaging, landscape studies, and network analysis to plot desert trail networks with greater accuracy; however, it is often difficult to date roadside installations and thus assess how these networks evolved in scope and density in reaction to climatic, social, and technological change. Roads in the Deserts of Roman Egypt examines evidence for desert roads in Roman Egypt and assesses Roman influence on the road density in two select desert areas: the central and southern section of the Eastern Desert and the central Marmarican Plateau, and discusses geographical and social factors influencing road use in the period, demonstrating that Roman overseers of these lands adapted remarkably well to local desert conditions, improving roads and developing the trail network. Crucially, the author reconceptualises desert trails as linear corridor structures that follow expedient routes in the desert landscape passing through at least two functional nodes attracting human traffic be those water sources farmlands mines quarries trade hubs military installations or actual settlements The route of least resistance across the desert varied from period to period according to the available road infrastructure and beasts of burden employed Roman administration in Egypt not only increased the density of local desert node networks but also facilitated internodal connections with camel caravans and transformed the Sahara by establishing new or embellishing existing nodes effectively funnelling desert traffic into discernible corridors Significantly not all desert areas of Egypt are equally suited for anthropogenic development but almost all have been optimised in one way or another with road installations built for added comfort and safety of travellers Accordingly the study of how Romans successfully adapted to desert travel is of wider significance to the study of deserts and ongoing expansion due to global warming

Mediterranean Connections A. Knapp, Stella Demesticha, 2016-08-25 Mediterranean Connections focuses on the origin and development of maritime transport containers from the Early Bronze through early Iron Age periods ca 3200 700 BC Analysis of this category of objects broadens our understanding of ancient Mediterranean interregional connections including the role that shipwrecks seafaring and coastal communities played in interaction and exchange These containers have often been the subject of specific and detailed pottery studies but have seldom been examined in the context of connectivity and trade in the Aegean and eastern Mediterranean This broad study considers the likely origins of these types of vessels traces their development and spread throughout the Aegean and eastern Mediterranean as archetypal organic bulk cargo containers discusses the wider impact on Mediterranean connections transport and trade over a period of 2 500 years covering the Bronze and early Iron Ages Classical and Near Eastern archaeologists and historians as well as maritime archaeologists will find this extensively researched volume an important addition to their library

Biblical Peoples and Ethnicity Ann E. Killebrew, 2012-09-01 Ancient Israel did not emerge within a vacuum but rather came to exist alongside various peoples including Canaanites Egyptians and Philistines Indeed Israel's very proximity to these groups has made it difficult until now to distinguish the archaeological traces of early Israel and other contemporary groups Through an analysis of the results from recent excavations in light of relevant historical and later biblical texts this book proposes that it is possible to identify these peoples and trace culturally or ethnically defined boundaries in the archaeological record Features of late second millennium B C E culture are critically examined in their historical and biblical contexts in order to define the complex social boundaries of the early Iron Age and reconstruct the diverse material world of these four peoples Of particular value to scholars archaeologists and historians this volume will also be a standard reference and resource for students and other readers interested in the emergence of early Israel

No One Sleeps in Alexandria Ibrāhīm 'Abd al-Majīd, 2006 This sweeping novel depicts the intertwined lives of an assortment of Egyptians Muslims and Copts northerners and southerners men and women as they begin to settle in Egypt's great second city and explores how the Second World War starting in supposedly faraway Europe comes crashing down on them affecting their lives in fateful ways Central to the novel is the story of a striking friendship between Sheikh Magd al Din a devout Muslim with peasant roots in northern Egypt and Dimyan a Copt with roots in southern Egypt in their journey of survival and self discovery Woven around this narrative are the stories of other characters in the city in the villages or in the faraway desert closer to the fields of combat And then there is the story of Alexandria itself as written by history as experienced by its denizens and as touched by the war Throughout the author captures the cadences of everyday life in the Alexandria of the early 1940s and boldly explores the often delicate question of religious differences in depth and on more than one level No One Sleeps in Alexandria adds an authentically Egyptian vision of Alexandria to the many literary but mainly Western Alexandrias we know already it may be the same space in which Cavafy Forster and Durrell move but it is certainly not the same world
