

Mission

To use the Office of the Mayor to promote Richmond, increase economic activity, insure housing for all, improve health, education and safety, enhance the quality of life for Richmond residents and provide public policy leadership.

- The Charter designates the mayor as “the chief elected officer and ceremonial head of the City, responsible for providing civic leadership and taking issues to the people, and marshalling public interest in and support for municipal activity. The Mayor shall be concerned with the general development of the community and the general level of City services and activity programs and may develop and inform City residents of policies and programs which he or she believes are necessary for the welfare of the City.” (Charter of the City of Richmond, Article III-A Sec. 2.)

Marshalling Community Leadership to Support the Public Schools Nolan Estes, 1974-01-01 Resources in Education, 1978 Research in Education, 1974 The Restoration of Standards James C. Enochs, 1979 Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1976 The Academic Achievement of Young Americans J. Stanley Ahmann, 1983 Data from the National Assessment of Educational Progress NAEP are reviewed to outline the achievement levels of students in the United States This examination of NAEP data showing changes in levels of achievement during the 1970s leads to a number of conclusions The overall picture for 9 year olds is promising The outlook for 13 year olds with the possible exception of mathematics is less encouraging and that for 17 year olds is quite disturbing Despite these declines repeated gains have been achieved by student groups that typically fall below the national average A vexing problem that appears regularly is the uneven achievement in tasks requiring more than recall of information This paper concludes with proposals for steps to be taken to improve higher order learning These steps are to be taken within the classrooms within the schools and within the communities BW Early Field Experiences in Teacher Education Peggy G. Elliott, Peggy Gordon Elliott Miller, Robert E. Mays, Robert Earl Mays, 1979 Research-practice Partnerships for School Improvement Mei Kuin Lai, Stuart McNaughton, Rebecca Jesson, Aaron Wilson, 2020-03-13 This book provides a theoretical and practical account of a successful design based research practice partnership the Learning Schools Model The Model has built school capability and improved valued student outcomes for primarily indigenous and ethnic minority students for over 15 years and across five countries A Primer on Piaget William Orestus Penrose, 1979 Jean Piaget's theories about the development of intelligence and their implications for educational practice are explored Before Piaget began studying the intellectual processes of children researchers regarded them as little adults He derived his early fame from his theory of the cognitive stages of childhood He realized the remarks of children had meaning and revealed modes of reasoning and judgment different from those of adults The development of the child's thinking is marked by progressive clarification of ideas from global to differentiated thought It progresses from absolute to more relativistic thought It also changes from static to dynamic thought as the child matures Piaget believed thinking and intelligence were synonymous and stressed thinking as a general capacity Learning and thinking involve the participation of the learner He believed knowledge was not transmitted verbally but that it must be constructed and reconstructed by the thinker learner Activity is indispensable to learning and thinking The way the child moves through the stages of development may be clarified by the concepts of schemata assimilation accommodation and equilibrium The four stages of cognitive development defined by Piaget are sensory motor preoperational concrete operations and formal operations DWH Library of Congress Catalog Library of Congress, 1974-04 A cumulative list of works represented by Library of Congress printed cards Magnet Schools Charles B. Garcia,1976 Death Education A. Barbara Gibson,Polly C. Roberts,Thomas J. Buttery,1982 Death education is presently viewed as an ongoing process throughout the life cycle with the responsibility for it being shared by home church other community agencies and the schools Goals for a death education program include the following to inform children of basic facts concerning the multidimensional aspects of death and dying to enable individuals to be informed consumers of medical and funeral services and to improve quality of life by considering personal values and priorities Death education programs in elementary and secondary schools are not widespread but they are increasing college programs proliferated during the 1970 s The content in death education programs ranges from discussion of the death of a pet in kindergarten to study of human death burial and bereavement in the upper grades Death education by its very nature lends itself to a multidisciplinary approach For example students in the middle schools examine life cycles in nature the human life cycle and the biological social cultural economic and legal aspects of death Content in high school and college programs is quite similar with differences primarily in depth of treatment at the college level Content at the college level covers such areas as suicide and dealing with dying Death education programs lack a standardized set of concepts terminology and guidelines and have no established place in the curriculum A number of concerns must be dealt with For example what teaching techniques and materials are appropriate for death education Research in implementing death education into schools and college programs is needed A bibliography is included which lists print materials and audiovisual materials on the topic of death Author NE

Citizenship and Consumer Education Richard C. Remy,1980 Staff Development and Instructional Improvement Leslee J. Bishop,1976 Understanding the New Right and Its Impact on Education Joe L. Kincheloe,1983 The Kanawha County textbook controversy of 1974 sparked profound changes in the American political landscape and American education The roots of this controversy go back to the 1960 s when drug use women s liberation violence and sex education convinced conservatives that America was in moral decline Parents in Kanawha County fingered school textbooks with their secular humanistic approach as major transmitters of this social decay and 12 000 people petitioned for the prohibition of school literature which questioned God the family or the American political and economic systems This incident has had far reaching repercussions Conservatives have realized new power The New Right has formed around the issues of the Kanawha County petition two of its major concerns being educational control and curriculum content This movement has affected classroom teaching through censorship and a return to basics and rote learning Teachers are increasingly cautious about method and content By channeling its children into Christian academies and questioning compulsory education and the use of federal funds the New Right threatens the future of public education However ominous as this may seem the efforts of the New Right can have a positive effect on education The controversy it has raised should be used by all educators to re examine the American educational system LP Public Relations Robert L. Bishop,1976 Legal Implications of Minimum Competency Testing Joseph Beckham,1980 The legal implications of state mandated minimum competency testing are assessed Many state constitutions establish education as an individual s right Court decisions have required school systems to provide educational services to every child who can benefit from them implying equality of access to these services When a minimum competency testing program has the effect of denying an educational benefit then it can be argued that the testing program denies equality of educational opportunity violating the Fourteenth Amendment Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 or Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 Minimum competency testing statutes may violate standards of due process where an educational benefit has been denied and state action is judged to be arbitrary or lacking in fundamental fairness However courts have been reluctant to overturn state action where minimal elements of due process have been provided Provision of clear educational objectives is necessary to establish the relationship between curriculum and the competency standard but objectives may create a legal duty of care permitting a lawsuit based upon breach of duty to educate Procedural safeguards for a testing program will vary according to state law but a number of guidelines are suggested GK How Schools Can Apply Systems Analysis Joseph E. Hill,1972
