Mass-Observation and Visual Culture LucyD. Curzon, 2017-07-05 Mass Observation and Visual Culture Depicting Everyday Lives in Britain critically analyses the role that visual culture played in the early development of Mass Observation the innovative British anthropological research group founded in 1937 The group's production and use of painting collage photography and other media illustrates not only the broad scope of Mass Observation's efforts to document everyday life but also more specifically the centrality of visual elements to its efforts at understanding national identity in the 1930s Although much interest has previously focused on Mass Observation's use of written reports and opinion surveys as well as diaries that were kept by hundreds of volunteer observers this book is the first full length study of the group's engagement with visual culture Exploring the paintings of Graham Bell and William Coldstream the photographs of Humphrey Spender the paintings collages and photographs of Julian Trevelyan and

Humphrey Spender's photographs and widely recognized Mass Observation film Spare Time among other sources Mass Observation and Visual Culture Depicting Everyday Lives in Britain positions these works as key sources of information with regard to illuminating the complex character of British identity during the Depression era

The Making of Visual News
Thierry Gervais, Gaëlle Morel, 2020-09-23 The Making of Visual News sets out to show how photography has changed the way we read report and sell the news It investigates how photographs first became news images at the end of the nineteenth century and how magazines in the USA the UK France and Germany have put them to use ever since Drawing on a wide selection of images author Thierry Gervais in collaboration with Gaëlle Morel analyses news photographs in the context of their original presentation in print Highly illustrated the book contains 85 full colour magazine layouts and spreads offering the reader a view of how photographs were and are used in print publications including Life Picture Post the Berliner Illustrierte Zeitung and VU It examines how photographs were employed to attract new readers throughout the twentieth century arguing that photography was the main tool by which news editors sought to communicate the news and attract a broader readership Looking beyond the roles of photographer and journalist this study also highlights the contributions of picture editors and artistic directors by commissioning photographs and incorporating images into magazine layouts these figures played critical but often overlooked roles in the construction of visual news even as they crafted unique styles for their publications Charting changes in technology and reportage as well as broader social and political histories The Making of Visual News offers new insight into the history of photojournalism making this an essential resource for students and scholars of photojournalism and the history of photography media and culture
