7. CONCLUSION

In this paper, simulation and real time implementation study of VVC-SVM control of three phase PWM rectifier combined with a anti-windup PI controller of DC-link voltage is presented. For this purpose, simulation and experimental results shows that the proposed control is able to guarantee a good regulation of the output voltage and give a perfectly sinusoidal line current with a good THD that meets IEEE-519 (THD<27%). In addition, the decoupled feed-forward control strategies ensure a fast-dynamic response and very good decoupling in active and reactive current control. On the other hand, the proposed VVC scheme operates with the symmetrical SVM that are offering better DC-link voltage utilization, lower switching loss and a constant switching frequency.
