Peruvian sociologist Anibal Quijano's work on coloniality, coloniality of power and colonial matrix of power bringing it to an English reading audience for the first time Engels, Manchester, and the Working Class Steven Marcus, 2017-09-29 Friedrich Engels' first major work The Condition of the Working Class in England in 1844 has long been considered a social, political and economic classic. The first book of its kind to study the phenomenon of urbanism and the problems of the modern city, Engels' text contains many of the ideas he was later to develop in collaboration with Karl Marx. In this book, Steven Marcus, author of the highly acclaimed The Other Victorians, applies himself to the study of Engels' book and the conditions that combined to produce it. Marcus studies the city of Manchester, centre of the first Industrial Revolution between 1835 and 1850, when the city and its inhabitants were experiencing the first great crisis of the newly emerging industrial capitalism. He also examines Engels himself, son of a wealthy German textile manufacturer who was sent to Manchester to complete his business education in the English cotton mills. Touching upon several disciplines including the history of socialism, urban sociology, Marxist thought and the history and theory of the Industrial Revolution, Engels, Manchester and the Working Class offers a fascinating study of nineteenth-century English literature and cultural life.

Critical Companion to Contemporary Marxism Jacques Bidet, 2008 International and interdisciplinary in range and scope, the Critical Companion to Contemporary Marxism provides a thorough and precise panorama of recent developments in Marxist theory in the US, Europe and beyond. Demons and Development James Brow, 1996-10 In contemporary Sri Lanka, long-established modes of rural life are being disrupted in the name of progress. As this occurs, instances of demonic possession have been known to take place, incidents that may both express the conflicts that result and attempt to resolve them. When residents of the village of Kukulewa were promised sixty new houses, a factional rift arose between those who benefited from the project and those who did not. The breach between what became, in effect, two separate villages resulted in both divisive accusations of sorcery and spirit-inspired appeals for cooperation. James Brow witnessed these possession trances and sorcery accusations as they occurred, enabling him to convey this richly textured story, interweaving political factionalism and troubled spirits. Official projects of development have proceeded apace in Sri Lanka, but until now there have been few accounts of their tendency to tear apart the fabric of rural society. Demons and Development combines an engaging narrative of how development was experienced in one particular village with an original contribution to theories of hegemony, the social anthropology of South Asia, the ethnography of nationalism and the sociology of development. The Workers Monthly, 1925 Political Affairs, 1928 CCCS Selected Working Papers Ann Gray, Jan Campbell, Mark Erickson, Stuart Hanson, Helen Wood, 2007-11-07 This collection of classic essays focuses on the theoretical frameworks that informed the work of the Centre for Contemporary Cultural Studies at the University of Birmingham, the methodologies and working practices that the Centre developed for conducting academic research, and examples of the studies carried out under the auspices of the Centre. This volume is split into seven thematic sections that are introduced by key academics working in the field of cultural studies and includes a preface by eminent scholar Stuart Hall The thematic sections are Literature and Society Popular Culture and Youth Subculture Media Women s Studies and Feminism Race History Education and Work

The Limits of Labour David Bright,2011-11-01 In a few short decades before the First World War Calgary was transformed from a frontier outpost into a complex industrial metropolis With industrialization there emerged a diverse and equally complex working class David Bright explores the various levels of class formation and class identity in the city to argue that Calgary s reputation as a prewar centre of labour conservatism is in need of revision Bright also delineates the trials of the Calgary labour movement in the 1920s Internal divisions and dissent prevented the movement from realizing the potential strength of the working class Instead even as local capitalism restructured itself political and industrial labour organizations wilfully fragmented their own base of support In particular they failed to address the concerns and needs of the growing number of unemployed in the city a neglect that foreshadowed events of the 1930s This failure left the labour movement unable to meet the challenge of the Great Depression In part at least the demise of labour as a viable political alternative in Calgary paved the way for the rise of Social Credit Using Calgary as a model The Limits of Labour reasserts the need to place class formation at the heart of the development of western Canada and provides an historical context to the renewed struggle of labour for social justice in the 1990s

The Women's Liberation Movement and the Politics of Class in Britain George Stevenson,2019-02-21 This is the first study of the British Women s Liberation Movement s relationship with class politics It explores the meaning of class to women s liberationists identities and activism both nationally and regionally using a previously neglected feminist cluster in North East England as a case study Stevenson demonstrates that British feminism was shaped fundamentally by its relationship to synthesis with and rejection of class politics Through these processes feminists recognised how post war changes in the economy and gender roles were reshaping class and the Women s Liberation Movement attempted to remake class politics in response However socio economic and cultural class differences between the women involved linked to occupation education and background remained intractable obstacles causing tensions within groups fragmentations into specific class based groups and the ultimate failure of the movement to coalesce into a coherent coalition with labour politics despite great levels of solidarity around particular struggles Examining regional feminism against the national backdrop The Women s Liberation Movement and the Politics of Class in Britain provides an engaging exploration of the fruitful but challenging relationship between British feminism and class politics in a capitalist society

Black Marxism, Revised and Updated Third Edition Cedric J. Robinson,2020-12-16 In this ambitious work first published in 1983 Cedric Robinson demonstrates that efforts to understand Black people s history of resistance solely through the prism of Marxist theory are incomplete and inaccurate Marxist analyses tend to presuppose European models of history and experience that downplay the significance of Black people and Black communities as agents of change and resistance Black radicalism Robinson argues must be linked to the traditions of Africa and the unique experiences of Blacks on Western continents and any analyses of African American history need to acknowledge this To illustrate his argument Robinson traces the emergence of Marxist ideology in Europe the resistance by Blacks in historically oppressive environments and the influence of both of these traditions on such important twentieth century Black radical thinkers as W E B Du Bois C L R James and Richard Wright This revised and updated third edition includes a new preface by Tiffany Willoughby Herard and a new foreword by Robin D G Kelley
