Washington (State). Supreme Court

Sacajawea Co:

Sacajawea's People John W. W. Mann, 2004-12-01 On October 20 2001 a crowd gathered just east of Salmon Idaho to dedicate the site of the Sacajawea Interpretive Cultural and Education Center in preparation for the Lewis and Clark Bicentennial In a bitter instance of irony the American Indian peoples conducting the ceremony dedicating the land to the tribe the city of Salmon and the nation the Lemhi Shoshones Sacajawea's own people had been removed from their homeland nearly a hundred years earlier and had yet to regain official federal recognition as a tribe John W W Mann's book at long last tells the remarkable and inspiring story of the Lemhi Shoshones from their distant beginning to their present struggles Mann offers an absorbing and richly detailed look at the life of Sacajawea's people before their first contact with non Natives their encounter with the Lewis and Clark Expedition in the early nineteenth century and their subsequent confinement to a reservation in northern Idaho near the town of Salmon He follows the Lemhis from the liquidation of their reservation in 1907 to their forced union with the Shoshone Bannock tribes of the Fort Hall Reservation to the south He describes how for the past century surrounded by more populous and powerful Native tribes the Lemhis have fought to preserve their political economic and cultural integrity His compelling and informative account should help to bring Sacajawea's people out of the long shadow of history and restore them to their rightful place in the American story The Pacific Reporter, 1927

Linked Histories Wendy Faith, Pamela McCallum, 2005 The essays collected from the journal ARIEL A Review of International English Studies in Linked Histories take up some of the most pressing issues in postcolonial debates the challenges which new theories of globalization present for postcolonial studies the difficulties of rethinking how marginality might be defined in a new globalized world the problems of imagining social transformation within globalization The editors goal in bringing together this collection of articles is not to provide any definitive statement on these urgent questions rather it is to assemble a group of essays which think through the issues and which therefore has the potential to move the discipline forward Lead and Zinc News, 1904 Decisions Rendered United States Board on Geographic Names,

Decision List United States Board on Geographic Names, 1938 The Timberman, 1924 Report United States Congress Senate, Ordinary Women, Extraordinary Lives Kriste Lindenmeyer, 2000-06 This collection of seventeen minibiographies sheds light on the often neglected herstory of U S history from the revolutionary era through the late twentieth century In addition this volume suggests the complexity of studying the past when gender race class region age and ethnicity are included in the analysis This book is unique in that it focuses on the lives of ordinary women The names of the vast majority of those whose stories are included here will likely be unfamiliar even to serious students of American women's history The varied experiences of such women help to create a more complete picture of the past by revealing the influence general historical trends have had on the lives of ordinary individuals But ordinary does not mean lesser nor does it denote class race ethnicity or age The individual women's stories that are told in the following pages show that even people who are not featured in mainstream history texts led lives that deserve the attention of those interested in understanding the past The authors of these chapters have found support for generalizations commonly held by American women s historians Nonetheless their research has also led to unexpected findings that ask students of women s history to examine assumptions about the past more closely Decisions of the United States Board on Geographical Names ,1935 Washington Reports ...
