Folk-taxonomies in Early English Earl R. Anderson, 2003 A folk taxonomy is a semantic field that represents the particular way in which a language imposes structure and order upon the myriad impressions of human experience and perception Thus for example the experience of color in modern English is structured around an inventory of twelve basic color terms but languages vary in the number of basic color terms used from thirteen or fourteen terms to as few as two or three Anthropological linguists have been interested in the comparative study of folk taxonomies across contemporary languages and in their studies they have sometimes proposed evolutionary models for the development and elaboration of these taxonomies The evolutionary models have implications for historical linguistics but there have been very few studies of the historical development of a folk taxonomy within a language or within a language family Folk Taxonomies in Early English undertakes this task for English and to some extent for the Germanic and Indo European language families The semantic fields studied are basic color terms seasons of the year geometric shapes the five senses the folk psychology of mind and soul and basic plant and animal life forms Anderson's emphasis is on folk taxonomies in Old and Middle English and also on the implications of semantic analysis for our reading of early English literary texts The Columbia Encyclopedia, 1897 West Virginia Wild Life; Official Monthly Publication of the Wild Life League of West Virginia, 1928 Victorian Year-Book for the Year ... Henry Heylyn Hayter, 1875 The Academy, 1898 Prehistoric Antiquities of the Aryan Peoples, 1890 Atlas of the Far East and Southeast Asia Felicia Law, 2008 Take a look at the continent's countries people
