Luke Taylor

Seeing The Inside Bark Painting In Western Arnhem Land:

Seeing the Inside Luke Taylor, 1996 Seeing the Inside is the first detailed study of one of the world's great visual art traditions and its role in the society that produces it The bark painting of Aboriginal artists in western Arnhem Land is the product of a unique tradition of many thousands of years duration In recent years it has attracted enormous interest in the rest of Australia and beyond with the result that the artists who live primarily as hunters in this relatively secluded region of northern Australia now paint for sale to the world art market Though the richness and power of Aboriginal arts are now belatedly finding wide recognition they remain insufficiently understood In this thoroughly illustrated book Luke Taylor examines the creative methods of the bark painters and the cultural meaning of their work He discusses on the one hand the arrangements which allow the artists to project their culture on to an international stage and on the other the continuing social and religious roles of their paintings within their own society The result is a remarkable and fascinating picture of artistic creativity in a changing world

The Making of Indigenous Australian Contemporary Art Marie Geissler, 2021-01-06 This publication brings together existing research as well as new data to show how Arnhem Land bark painting was critical in the making of Indigenous Australian contemporary art and the self determination agendas of Indigenous Australians It identifies how when and what the shifts in the reception of the art were especially as they occurred within institutional exhibition displays Despite key studies already being published on the reception of Aboriginal art in this area the overall process is not well known or always considered while the focus has tended to be placed on Western Desert acrylic paintings This text however represents a refocus and addresses this more fully by integrating Arnhem Land bark painting into the contemporary history of Aboriginal art The trajectory moves from its understanding as a form of ethnographic art to seeing it as conceptual art and appreciating it for its cultural agency and contemporaneity creative ingenuity Animals in the Anthropocene Edited by the Human Animal Research Network Editorial Collective, 2015-06-16 Much of the discussion on the Anthropocene has centred upon anthropogenic global warming and climate change and the urgency of political and social responses to this problem Animals in the Anthropocene critical perspectives on non human futures shows that assessing the effects of human activity on the planet requires more than just the quantification of ecological impacts towards the categorisation of geological eras It requires recognising and evaluating a wide range of territories and terrains full of non human agents and interests and meanings exposed to the profound forces of change that give their name to the Anthropocene It is from the perspective of the animal question asking how best to think and live with animals that Animals in the Anthropocene seeks to interrogate the Anthropocene as a concept discourse and state of affairs The term Anthropocene is a useful device for drawing attention to the devastations wreaked by anthropocentrism and advancing a relational model for human and non human life The effects on animals of human political and economic systems continue to expand and intensify in numerous domains and in ways that not only cause suffering and loss but that also produce new forms of life and alter the very nature of species As anthropogenic change affects the more than human world in innumerable ways we must accept responsibility for the damage we have caused and the debt we owe to non human species
