Punzo Waghorne,2020-03-19 This book examines spirituality in Singapore showing how important the city state is for understanding contemporary global configurations of urban space religion and spirituality Joanne Punzo Waghorne highlights how the formal religious spaces temples churches and mosques have been confined to allotted sites on the map of Singapore whereas various spiritual organizations particularly of Hindu origins and headed by a guru still continue to operate as societies classified by the government with other clubs These unconventional religiosities are not confined but ironically make their own places meeting in ostensive secular venues high rise flats malls businesses and community centers thus existing in the overall space of religion commerce and the state The book argues that State of Singapore also operates between the secular and the religious constructing an overarching spatial regime that both accommodates and yet rivals the alternate spheres that spiritual movements construct under its umbrella Both spatial configurations challenge the presumed relationships between myth and reality religion and commerce the ethereal and the concrete the sacred and the secular on the levels of self community and polity Singapore now deemed a model for urban development in Asia also offers an understanding of a new post secularity and perhaps reveals where the urbanized world is headed The "Bare Life" of

Emerson,2014-04-08 Medieval attempts to capture a glimpse of heaven range from the ethereal to the mundane utilizing media as diverse as maps cathedrals songs treatises poems visions and sewer systems Heaven was at once the goal of the individual Christian life and the end of the cosmic plan

It was simply stated perfection But interpretations varied from the traditional to the dangerously unique as artists and authors theologians and visionaries struggled to define that perfection Depending on the source heaven's attributes vary from height to depth darkness to light silence to symphony the souls within it from activity to passivity experience to essence participation to distant admiration Questions addressed in this anthology include Are erotic and spiritual love mutually exclusive Does the soul's happiness depend on the resurrection of the body What will be the nature of the transfigured body Will it retain its gender Will it have senses Will it know desire How can desire and fulfillment exist together Can the human soul ever know God Contributors to this volume examine well known and previously unexplored texts and artefacts from historical and art historical theological philosophical and literary perspectives to complement and challenge more general surveys of the history of heaven and above all to illuminate the richness and variety of medieval Christian ideas on heaven

Intimate Relationships Across Boundaries Julia

Moses, Julia Woesthoff, 2021-05-16 This collection investigates intermarriage and related relationships around the world since the eighteenth century The contributors explore how intimate relationships challenged boundary crossings of various kinds social geographic religious ethnic To this end the volume considers a range of related issues Who participated in these unions How common were they and in which circumstances were they practised or banned Taking a global view the book also questions some of the categories behind these relationships For example how did geographical boundaries across national lines distinctions between colonies and metropolises or metaphors of the East and the West shape the treatment of intermarriage What role have social and symbolic boundaries such as presumed racial religious or socio economic divides played To what extent and how were those boundaries blurred in the eyes of contemporaries Not least how have bureaucracies and law contributed to the creation of boundaries preventing romantic unions Intimate relationships the contributors suggest brought into sharp relief assumptions not only about community and culture but also about the sanctity of the sphere of love and family The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of The History of the Family

Population Policy and Reproduction in Singapore Shirley Hsiao-Li Sun, 2012-07-26 This book examines the relationship between population policies and individual reproductive decisions in low fertility contexts Using the case study of Singapore it demonstrates that the effectiveness of population policy is a function of competing notions of citizenship and the gap between seemingly neutral policy incentives and the perceived and experienced disparate effects Drawing on a substantial number of personal interviews and focus groups the book analyzes the developmental welfare state's overarching emphasis of citizen responsibility and examines population policies that reinforce social inequalities and ignore cultural diversity These factors combine to undermine elaborate state policy efforts in encouraging citizens biological reproduction The book goes on to argue that in order to facilitate positive fertility decisions the state needs to modify the economic production at all cost approach and pay much more attention to the importance of social rights This suggests that the Singapore government might profitably approach the phenomenon of very low fertility with major initiatives similar to those of other advanced industrialized societies This book offers a significant contribution to the literature on social policy East Asian and Southeast Asian studies Intimate Relationships and Social Change Christina L.
