We know that human beings are part of nature, yet philosophical systems around the world deny or minimize this fact. As the first book to take a systematic account of the universal human tendency to deny or minimize biology, this book considers a wide variety of these anti-biological systems and their relation to larger issues, particularly gender studies. Discussed in this book are a wide variety of expressions of the antithesis between human beings and natural processes in which the latter are denied, denigrated, or minimized. Paul; Witches and Wizards: A Male/Female Dichotomy James L. He explores how blood feuding came to infect social relations from a historical perspective as well as studying its consequences for Thull society and culture. Cultural Memories Peter Meusburger, Michael Heffernan, Edgar Wunder, 2011-05-11. The revival of interest in collective cultural memories since the 1980s has been a genuinely global phenomenon. Cultural memories can be defined as the social constructions of the past that allow individuals and groups to orient themselves in time and space. The investigation of cultural memories has necessitated an interdisciplinary perspective, though geographical questions about the spaces, places, and landscapes of memory have acquired a special significance. The essays in this volume, written by leading anthropologists, geographers, historians, and psychologists, open a range of new interpretations of the formation and development of cultural memories from ancient times to the present day. The volume is divided into five interconnected sections. The first section outlines the theoretical considerations that have shaped recent debates about cultural memory. The second section provides detailed case studies of three key themes: the founding myths of the nation-state, the contestation of national collective memories during periods of civil war, and the oral traditions that move beyond national narrative. The third section examines the role of World War II as a pivotal episode in an emerging European cultural memory. The fourth section focuses on cultural memories in postcolonial contexts beyond Europe. The fifth and final section extends the study of cultural memory back into premodern tribal and nomadic societies. Cultural Identity and Ethnicity in the Pacific Jocelyn Linnekin, Lin Poyer, 1990-01-01. Choice, 1980. Pintupi Country, Pintupi Self Fred R. Myers, 1991-05-02. The Pintupi, a hunting and gathering people of Australia's Western Desert, were among the last Aborigines to come into contact with white

Australian Anthropologist Fred Myers who has been working with the Pintupi since 1973 presents an innovative study of this small scale spatially dispersed egalitarian society. His comprehensive ethnography focuses on contradictions between indigenous ideas of individual autonomy and those of relatedness, a tension mediated in politics, spatial relations and the mythological construction of The Dreaming. Myers' sophisticated analysis shows how these contradictions shape Pintupi personhood despite the duress of recent relocation in settlements. These Aboriginal people struggle to define themselves in terms of this cultural logic. Henderson, Louisiana Marjorie R. Esman, 1985
