the piercing sound of a steamboat's whistle along the banks of the Coosa River served as an exotic technological proclamation for the beginning of a new era in Northeast Alabama The landing of Captain James Lafferty's steamboat the Coosa marked the genesis of a new town and the realization of a shared vision of Gabriel Hughes Joseph Hughes and John S Moragne From that moment on hundreds upon hundreds of pioneering men and women immigrated to Gadsden in the latter part of the nineteenth century pursuing the American dream of land and opportunity Gadsden City of Champions with over 100 black and white illustrations presents a comprehensive history of Gadsden's astonishing development and details the various stages of the city's evolution from a neutral playing field between rival Cherokee and Creek tribes to a wilderness stagecoach stop to a humble village to a major riverboat port into a modern industrial city Amid streetcars opera houses bustling mills and unpaved streets readers meet local figures such as Colonel R B Kyle Captain James M Elliott Jr Judge John H Disque Emma Sansom and John W Wisdom and a host of colorful characters riverboat pilots theater managers mill workers Pulltight saloonkeepers and bootleggers against an epic backdrop of war Reconstruction depression fire and prosperity

Representing Space in the Scientific Revolution David Marshall Miller, 2014-08-07 The novel understanding of the physical world that characterized the Scientific Revolution depended on a fundamental shift in the way its protagonists understood and described space At the beginning of the seventeenth century spatial phenomena were described in relation to a presupposed central point by its end space had become a centerless void in which phenomena could only be described by reference to arbitrary orientations David Marshall Miller examines both the historical and philosophical aspects of this far reaching development including the rejection of the idea of heavenly spheres the advent of rectilinear inertia and the theoretical contributions of Copernicus Gilbert Kepler Galileo Descartes and Newton His rich study shows clearly how the centered Aristotelian cosmos became the oriented Newtonian universe and will be of great interest to students and scholars of the history and philosophy of science

Eating on the Move from the Eighteenth Century to the Present Rita d'Errico, Stefano Magagnoli, Peter Scholliers, Peter J. Atkins, 2023-06-07 This book focuses on food and meals consumed during travel since the transport revolution and examines the ways in which the introduction of new forms of transport propelled by steam and petrol engines not only affected the way people travel but also led to a transformation in the way we eat Eating on board a train is different from eating on a ship and the same is true for other forms of transport Such differences are not simply a question of quality or variations of menu a unique history has defined each of these different situations a history which is still largely to be studied This volume contains contributions from a mix of established food historians and young researchers Social and economic history overlap with cultural history approaches and forays into the fields of linguistics and art confirming that the field of food history and more generally food studies is by definition a field of transdisciplinary and border research This volume will be of interest for scholars within the field of food history food studies and food culture as well as social and cultural historians dealing with industrialization or social policy Parliamentary Debates New Zealand.
