Slaughter, 2023-11-14 In the first half of the nineteenth century the United States saw both a series of Protestant religious revivals and the dramatic expansion of the marketplace Although today conservative Protestantism is associated with laissez faire capitalism many of the nineteenth century believers who experienced these transformations offered different competing visions of the link between commerce and Christianity Joseph P Slaughter offers a new account of the interplay between religion and capitalism in American history by telling the stories of the Protestant entrepreneurs who established businesses to serve as agents of cultural and economic reform Faith in Markets examines three Christian business enterprises and the visions of a Christian marketplace they represented Shaped by Pietist Calvinist and Arminian theologies each offered different answers to the question of what a moral Christian market should look like George Rapp Associates operated sophisticated textile factories as the business side of the model community the Harmony Society which practiced communal living in pursuit of a harmonious workforce The Pioneer Stage Coach Line provided transportation services only six days a week to keep Sunday sacred attempting to reform society by outcompeting less pious businesses The publisher Harper Brothers sought to elevate American culture through commerce by producing virtuous products like lavishly illustrated Bibles Drawing on a wide range of sources Faith in Markets explores how the founders and owners of these enterprises infused their faith into their businesses and in turn how distinctly religious businesses shaped American capitalism and society

Tuso,2016-11-21 The profession of peacemaking has been practiced by indigenous communities around the world for many centuries however the ethnocentric world view of the West which dominated the world of ideas for the last five centuries dismissed indigenous forms of peacemaking as irrelevant and backward tribal rituals Neither did indigenous forms of peacemaking fit the conception of modernization and development of the new ruling elites who inherited the postcolonial state The new profession of Alternative Dispute Resolution ADR which emerged in the West as a new profession during the 1970s neglected the tradition and practice of indigenous forms of peacemaking The scant literature which has appeared on this critical subject tends to focus on the ritual aspect of the indigenous practices of peacemaking The goal of this book is to fill this lacuna in scholarship More specifically this work focuses on the process of peacemaking exploring the major steps of process of peacemaking which the peacemakers follow in dislodging antagonists from the stage of hostile confrontation to peaceful resolution of disputes and eventual reconciliation The book commences with a critique of ADR for neglecting indigenous processes of peacemaking and then utilizes case studies from different communities around the world to focus on the following major themes the basic structure of peacemaking process change and continuity in the traditions of peacemaking the role of indigenous women in peacemaking the nature of the tools peacemakers deploy common features found in indigenous processes of peacemaking and the overarching goals of peacemaking activities in indigenous communities
