That Michael Steinberger,2011-01-15 France is in a rut and so is French cuisine Twenty five years ago it was hard to have a bad meal in France now in some cities and towns it is a challenge to find a good one For the first time in the annals of modern cuisine the most influential chefs and the most talked about restaurants in the world are not French Within France large segments of the wine industry are in crisis cherished artisanal cheeses are threatened with extinction and bistros and brasseries are disappearing at an alarming rate But business is brisk at some establishments Astonishingly France has become the second most profitable market in the world for McDonald's In an enviable trip through the traditional pleasures of France Steinberger talks to top chefs Ducasse Gagnaire Bocuse winemakers farmers bakers and other artisans He visits the Elysée Palace interviews the head of McDonald's Europe marches down a Paris boulevard with Jose Bove and breaks bread with the editorial director of the powerful and secretive Michelin Guide He spends hours with some of France's brightest young chefs and winemakers who are battling to reinvigorate the country's rich culinary heritage Throughout Steinberger remains an unabashed and steadfast Francophile and his own sharp and funny reflections bring empathy to this striking portrait of a cuisine and a country in transition True to the Land Paul van Reyk,2021-10-11

Spanning 65 000 years this book provides a history of food in Australia from its beginnings with the arrival of the first peoples and their stewardship of the land to a present where the production and consumption of food is fraught with anxieties and competing priorities It describes how food production in Australia is subject to the constraints of climate water and soil leading to centuries of unsustainable agricultural practices post colonization Australian food history is also the story of its xenophobia and the immigration policies pursued which continue to undermine the image of Australia as a model multicultural society This history of Australian food ends on a positive note however as Indigenous peoples take increasing control of how their food is interpreted and marketed Alice Waters and Chez Panisse Thomas McNamee,2007-03-22 The first authorized biography of the mother of American cooking The New York Times This adventurous book charts the origins of the local market cooking culture that we all savor today When Francophile Alice Waters opened Chez Panisse in Berkeley in 1971 few Americans were familiar with goat cheese cappuccino or mesclun But it wasn't long before Waters and her motley coterie of dreamers inspired a new culinary standard incorporating ethics politics and the conviction that the best grown food is also the tastiest Based on unprecedented access to Waters and her inner circle this is a truly delicious rags to riches saga
