Violent Women in Print Clare Bielby, 2012 West Germany's terrorist period of the 1970s is still a troubling and fascinating subject for Germans not least because of the high proportion of women involved most notoriously Ulrike Meinhof The present study examines the West German print media of the 1960s and 1970s from the right wing Bild to the left leaning Der Spiegel to explore how violent women both terrorists and others were represented in image and text This is the first book to explore print media representations of German terrorism from an explicitly gendered perspective and one of very few books in English to address

Empires of Print Patrick Scott Belk, 2017-05-08 At the turn of the twentieth century the publishing industries in Britain and the United States underwent dramatic expansions and reorganization that brought about an increased traffic in books and periodicals around the world Focusing on adventure fiction published from 1899 to 1919 Patrick Scott Belk looks at authors such as Joseph Conrad H G Wells Conan Doyle and John Buchan to explore how writers of popular fiction engaged with foreign markets and readers through periodical publishing Belk argues that popular fiction particularly the adventure genre developed in ways that directly correlate with authors' experiences and shows that popular genres of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries emerged as one way of marketing their literary works to expanding audiences of readers worldwide Despite an over determined print space altered by the rise of new kinds of consumers and transformations of accepted habits of reading publishing and writing the changes in British and American publishing at the turn of the twentieth century inspired an exciting new period of literary invention and experimentation in the adventure genre and the greater part of that invention and experimentation was happening in the magazines

Contemporary Chinese Print Media Zheng Yi, 2013-10-01 This book examines the transformations in form genre and content of contemporary Chinese print media It describes and analyses the role of post reform social stratification in the media focusing particularly on how the changing practices and institutions of the industry correspond to and accelerate the emergence of a relatively affluent urban leisure reading market It argues that this reinvention of Chinese print media vis vis the creation of a post socialist taste class culture is an essential part of the cultural and affective transformations in contemporary Chinese society and demonstrates how the reinvention of such taste culture effectively creates through new kinds of reading materials and carefully demarcated target audiences a middle class civility that serves as the locus of the new niche media market
