Reflections Along A Political Journey:

Psychoanalytic Reflections on Politics Eszter Salgó, 2013-11-07 Psychoanalytic Reflections on Politics Fatherlands in mothers hands is a playful exploration of how people's desires, fantasies and emotions shape political events and social phenomena. It highlights the mythical sources of today's political projects, the power of political imagination and the function of symbolism in political thought. Eszter Salgó argues that the driving force for the formation of political communities is fantasy, illusions in a Winnicottian sense, phantasies in a Lacanian sense, phantoms as described by Nicolas Abraham and Maria Torok, and dreams as interpreted by Sándor Ferenczi. She introduces the metaphor of the fantastic family as a symbolic representation of political communities both to reflect on people's deeply felt desire to find in public life the resolution, love and wholeness of early childhood and to unveil the political elite's readiness to don the mask of the ideal parent. The book is divided into two parts. The first part of the book explores the theories of Donald Winnicott and Jacques Lacan, the matrimony on the stage of politics between the good enough mother and the Symbolic Father, which inaugurates the story of democracy's fantastic family. The second part presents the fantastic families of selected countries such as Hungary, Italy and the world community to explain the proliferation of cosmogony projects and to document the failure of the political elites to offer a satisfactory performance of their maternal and paternal functions. Psychoanalytic Reflections on Politics Fatherlands in mothers hands presents a new way of considering the art of politics based on the understanding that people perceive reality through imagination and unconscious fantasy. It will be of interest to psychoanalysts and academics from across the disciplines of politics, psychology, anthropology, sociology, philosophy, literature and art. Reflections on Political Theory N. Wood, 2001-12-18 In this thought provoking study Neal Wood challenges the conception of political theory as a lofty discipline remote from the world of real politics. Drawing on the examples of thinkers from Plato to those of the nineteenth century, he attempts to define political theory by examining the nature of the state and politics by identifying the major characteristics that their theories share and by analyzing the conditions that have favoured their creation. Wood critically explores the two principle approaches to studying the work of past theorists, the philosophical and historical, and evaluates the relevance of Marxism. The various theories are not treated as blueprints but collectively as a voice of reason from the past which can inspire and guide present and future theorizing. Reflections on Learning, Life and Work Maureen Ryan, 2012-10-26 This book records the stories of doctoral study experiences of the twenty two writers. These research degree experiences are embedded in the lives and careers of the writers and the twenty two distinctive projects draw from those individual lives and careers. The authors write about meeting the continuing demands of older and younger family members and of their struggles with ill health and work place demands while working through their studies. There is also the joy of coming to see themselves and being seen as research scholars and supporting and celebrating with others as they move through candidature proposals and ethics applications to graduation. Apart from the stories that bring the writers to their particular projects and that colour their individual journeys storytelling methodology is most often selected for the research all of which is undertaken within the arts humanities and education Phenomenology narrative ethnography are central to most of the studies and the detailed accounts of each research topic methods and outcomes locate each of the research projects in rich bodies of knowledge Valued writers and readers in these fields Mary Beattie and Elaine Martin have read each reflection and provided in turn a foreword and an afterword which bookend the volume and further enrich these reflections on learning life and work

The Works of the Right Honorable Edmund Burke ...: Political miscellanies. Reflections on the revolution in France. Letter to a member of the National assembly Edmund Burke,1892 Political Journeys Fred Halliday,2012-01-01 One of the great contrarians of international relations scholarship Fred Halliday was able to combine his understanding of the broad sweep of modern history with a profound knowledge of modern revolutions the Middle East and national movements This collection of Halliday s political essays written for the online journal openDemocracy between 2004 and 2009 is proof of a subtle worldview that continues to generate questions What is the relation between religion nationalism and progress Is a new international order possible When is intervention a force for progress From the big headline topics such as the Iraq War to the unexpected comparisons of Tibet and Palestine or Afghanistan and the Falklands Halliday s writings provide a perennially surprising and enlightened guide to the major issues of international politics

Our Politics Douglas Kane,2019-05-13 Douglas Kane an American politician and economist offers readers a straightforward personal account of what it is like to run for and hold public office the demands conflicts temptations and rewards created by political economic and social forces Throughout the book Kane references Illinois and Wisconsin politics The campaigns of his wife Kathleen Vinehout and her years in the Wisconsin senate show that the centralization of political power the structure of campaign organizations and the policy decisions that Kane experienced as an Illinois legislator are not unique to any one state In Our Politics Kane reflects on his nearly fifty years of active engagement in state and local politics In a series of essays he seeks to understand the forces motivations incentives and technologies that shape our politics and produce the consequences that we live with every day He describes how candidates and officeholders deal with the fundamental contradictions inherent in the democratic process and how and why the political power structure has changed He also explores the personal experience of being a legislator from deciding how to vote to building relationships with party leaders fellow legislators the governor and the voters in the district Kane concludes by considering the possibility of change how it might happen and the steps that candidates political parties activists and others might take to better our politics with results more to our liking While many journalists record politics from the outside and numerous political memoirs focus on personalities and what happened to whom and when this book gives an insider s view of politics at the level of state government This book is not about those politicians but about our politics which together we have created and together we must deal with
