Reflections on Latin American

Development Roberto de Olivera Campos, 2014-11-11 Economic development has been a challenge facing the countries of Latin America. Because the United States from the very nature of its geographic and economic relationship with its southern neighbors must inevitably exercise a strong influence on the course which that development takes it is important that North Americans understand conditions in Latin America and the attitudes of its peoples. Roberto de Oliveira Campos, former Brazilian Minister of Economic Planning, is in a unique position to evaluate both past accomplishments and future problems. In this group of essays Campos gives a comprehensive analysis of many aspects of Latin American development in the mid twentieth century. He examines relations between the United States and Latin America from a variety of angles and he outlines the basic problems of economic development, of governmental policy and of public and private administration. He gives particular attention in several essays to the relationship of foreign trade and foreign aid to economic development and he presents a long discussion of the Alliance for Progress, its history, its purposes, its accomplishments and its failures. Campos's philosophy regarding the role of the state in economic development and other questions emerges clearly from these pithy essays. The valid distinction I see on the basis of my analysis of men and things is between pragmatic or functional nationalists and romantic or temperamental nationalists, he writes. The latter confuse intention with results. They start with enthusiasm and end in fanaticism, this being according to Santayana the art of redoubling efforts after losing sight of objectives. Many romantic nationalists, though they do not confess it, favor the dangerous purgery of revolution. The pragmatic nationalist seeks to operate within the frame of democratic institutions and prefers reform to revolution. As to myself, I shall continue considering myself a pragmatic nationalist. I renounce the temptation of mobilizing resentment in order to gain the authority to plan development. I would rather strengthen the national entrepreneur than merely antagonize the foreigner. I would want the state not to do what it cannot do in order to do what it should do. I prefer to love my own country rather than to hate the others.

Beyond Neoliberalism James Petras, Henry Veltmeyer, 2016-04-15 The world is at the crossroads of social change in the vortex of forces that are bringing about a different world, a post neoliberal state. This groundbreaking book lays out an analysis of the dynamics and contradictions of capitalism in the twenty first century. These dynamics of forces are traced out in developments across the world: in the Arab Spring of North Africa and the Middle East, in Cuba and elsewhere in Latin America, in the United States and in Asia. The forces released by a system in crisis can be mobilized in different ways and directions. The focus of the book is on the strategic responses to the systemic crisis. As the authors tell it, these dynamics concern three worldviews and strategic responses The Davos Consensus focuses on the virtues of the free market and deregulated capitalism as it represents the interests of the global ruling class The post Washington Consensus concerns the need to give capital a human face and establish a more inclusive form of development and global governance In addition to these two visions of the future and projects the authors identify an emerging radical consensus on the need to move beyond capitalism as well as neoliberalism
