Silent Film Sound:

Silent Film Sound Rick Altman, 2004 Based on extensive original research and filled with gorgeous illustrations Silent Film Sound reconsiders all aspects of sound practices during the silent film period in America Beginning with sound accompaniment and continuing through to the more familiar sound practices of the 1920s renowned film historian Rick Altman discusses the variety of sound strategies cinema exhibitors used to differentiate their products During the nickelodeon period prior to 1910 this variety reached its zenith with carnival like music automatic pianos small orchestras lecturers synchronized sound systems and voices behind the screen In the 1910s musical accompaniment began to support a film's narrative and emotional content with large theaters and blockbuster productions driving the development of new instruments new music publication projects and a new style of film music A monumental achievement Silent Film Sound challenges common assumptions about this period and reveals the complex and swiftly changing nature of silent American cinema

Music and Sound in Silent Film Ruth Barton, Simon Trezise, 2018-12-07 Despite their name the silent films of the early cinematic era were frequently accompanied by music and other sound elements of many kinds including mechanical instruments live performers and audience sing alongs The 12 chapters in this concise book explore the multitude of functions filled by music in the rapidly changing context of the silent film era as the concept of cinema itself developed Examples are drawn from around the globe and across the history of silent film both during the classic era of silent film and later uses of the silent format With contributors drawn from film studies and music disciplines and including both senior and emerging scholars Music and Sound in Silent Film offers an essential introduction to the origins of film music and the cinematic art form

The Sounds of Early Cinema Richard Abel, Rick R. Altman, 2001-10-03 The Sounds of Early Cinema is devoted exclusively to a little known yet absolutely crucial phenomenon the ubiquitous presence of sound in early cinema Silent cinema may rarely have been silent but the sheer diversity of sound's and sound image relations characterizing the first 20 years of moving picture exhibition can still astonish us Whether instrumental vocal or mechanical sound ranged from the improvised to the pre arranged as in scripts scores and cue sheets The practice of mixing sounds with images differed widely depending on the venue the nickelodeon in Chicago versus the summer Chautauqua in rural Iowa the music hall in London or Paris versus the newest palace cinema in New York City as well as on the historical moment a single venue might change radically and many times from 1906 to 1910 Contributors include Richard Abel Rick Altman Edouard Arnoldy Mats Björkin Stephen Bottomore Marta Braun Jean Châteauneuf Ian Christie Richard Crangle Helen Day Mayer John Fullerton Jane Gaines Andr Gaudreault Tom Gunning François Jost Charlie Keil Jeff Klenotic Germain Lacasse Neil Lerner Patrick Loughney David Mayer Domini Nasta Bernard Perron Jacques Polet Lauren Rabinovitz Isabelle Raynauld Herbert Reynolds Gregory A Waller and Rashit M Yangirov

Silent Film Sound, 2004 Overview Because silent cinema is widely perceived as having been exactly that silent no one has fully examined how sound was used to accompany the films of this era Silent Film Sound reconsiders all aspects of sound practices during the entire silent film period Based on extensive original research and accompanied by gorgeous illustrations the book challenges the assumptions of earlier histories of this period in film and reveals the complexity and swiftly changing nature of American silent cinema Contrary to received opinion silent films were not always accompanied nor were accompaniments uniform Beginning with sound practices before cinema s first decade and continuing through to the more familiar sound practices of the 1920s Rick Altman discusses the variety of sound strategies and the way early cinema exhibitors used these strategies to differentiate their products During the nickelodeon period prior to 1910 this variety reached its zenith with theaters often deploying half a dozen competing sound strategies from carnival like music in the street automatic pianos at the rear of the theater and small orchestras in the pit to lecturers synchronized sound systems and voices behind the screen During this period musical accompaniment had not yet begun to support the story and its emotions as it would in later years But in the 1910s film sound acquiesced to the demands of the burgeoning cinema industry who successfully argued that accompaniment should enhance film s narrative and emotional content rather than score points by burlesquing or kidding the film The large theaters and blockbuster productions of the mid 1910s provided a perfect crucible for new instruments new music publication projects and the development of a new style of film music From that moment on film music would become an integral part of the film rather than its adversary and a new style of cinema sound would favor accompaniment that worked in concert with cinema story telling For the first time Silent Film Sound details the ways in which these diverse interests and industries came together to produce an extraordinarily successful audiovisual art

Today's Sounds for Yesterday's Films K.J. Donnelly,Ann-Kristin

Wallengren,2016-04-08 In recent years there has been something of an explosion in the performance of live music to silent films There is a wide range of films with live and new scores that run from the historically accurate orchestral scores to contemporary sounds by groups such as Pet Shop Boys or by experimental composers and gothic heavy metal bands It is no exaggeration to claim that music constitutes a bridge between the old silent film and the modern audience music is also a channel for non scholarly audiences to gain an appreciation of silent films Music has become a means both for musicians and audiences to understand this bygone film art anew This book is the first of its kind in that it aims to bring together writings and interviews to delineate the culture of providing music for silent films It not only has the character of a scholarly work but is also something of a manual in that it discusses how to make music for silent films Music for Silent Film Kendra Preston

Leonard,2016-01-01 Between 1895 and 1929 more than 15 000 motion pictures were made in the United States We call these works silent films but they were accompanied by an enormous body of music including works adapted or arranged from pre existing works as well as newly composed pieces for theater orchestras organists or pianists While many films and pieces are lost a considerable amount of material remains extant and available for use in research and performance Music for Silent Film A Guide to North American Resources is a unique resource on North American archives and English language materials available in for those interested in this repertoire Part I contains information about archives of primary source materials including full and compiled scores sheet music published anthologies of music interviews with cinema musicians periodicals and instruction books Part II surveys the English language scholarship on silent film music in articles book chapters essay collections and monographs through 2015 The book is fully indexed for ease of access to these important sources on film music After the Silents Michael Slowik,2014-10-07 Many believe Max Steiner s score for King Kong 1933 was the first important attempt at integrating background music into sound film but a closer look at the industry s early sound era 1926 1934 reveals a more extended and fascinating story Viewing more than two hundred films from the period Michael Slowik launches the first comprehensive study of a long neglected phase in Hollywood s initial development recasting the history of film sound and its relationship to the Golden Age of film music 1935 1950 Slowik follows filmmakers shifting combinations of sound and image recapturing the volatility of this era and the variety of film music strategies that were tested abandoned and kept He explores early film music experiments and accompaniment practices in opera melodrama musicals radio and silent films and discusses the impact of the advent of synchronized dialogue He concludes with a reassessment of King Kong and its groundbreaking approach to film music challenging the film s place and importance in the timeline of sound achievement

The Sounds of the Silents in Britain Julie Brown,Annette Davison,2012-11-01 The Sounds of the Silents in Britain explores the sonic dimension of film exhibition in Britain from the emergence of cinema to the introduction of synchronized sound Written by experts on British silent film and film music the chapters provide an introduction to diverse aspects of early film sound vocal performance from lecturing and reciting to voicing the drama music from developments in accompanying techniques to the impact of legislation on musical practice overall and performance in cinemas more generally from dancing and singalong films to live stage prologues The book also debunks some of the myths about the sonic dimension of film exhibition it reveals that exhibition practices in London were arguably more sophisticated than those in New York before the onset of World War I for instance and that venue licensing decisions had a profound effect on whether music could even be performed with film in some theatres Based on extensive archival research and musicological analysis The Sounds of the Silents in Britain represents an important addition to early film and film music scholarship
