

Your name from hence immortal life shall have,
Though I, once gone, to all the world must die;
The earth can yield me but a common grave,
When you entombed in men's eyes shall lie.
Your monument shall be my gentle verse,
Which eyes not yet created shall o'er-read;
And tongues to be, your being shall rehearse,
When all the breathers of this world are dead;
You still shall live,--such virtue hath my pen,--

Where breath most breathes, even in the mouths of men.

I grant thou wert not married to my Muse,
And therefore mayst without attaint o'erlook
The dedicated words which writers use
Of their fair subject, blessing every book.
Thou art as fair in knowledge as in hue,
Finding thy worth a limit past my praise;
And therefore art enforced to seek anew
Some fresher stamp of the time-bettering days.
And do so, love; yet when they have devis'd,
What strained touches rhetoric can lend,
Truly fair, wert truly sympathiz'd
By true-telling friends;

I never saw that you did painting need,
And therefore to your fair no painting see
I found, or thought I found, you did exceed That barren tender of a poet's debt:
And therefore have I slept in your report
That you yourself, being extant, well might Show far a modern quill doth come too short.
Speaking of worth, what worth in you doth
This silence for my sin you did impute,
Which shall be most my glory being dumb;
For I impair not beauty being mute,
When others would give life, and bring a
There lives more life in one of your eyes
Than both your poets can in praise dew

LXXXIV Eighty-Four ♥

Who is it that says most, which can say
Than this rich praise,--that you alone,
In whose confine immured is the store
Which should example where your equal
Lean penury within that pen doth dwell
That to his subject lends not some
But he that writes of you
That you are

Silk And Sonnets:

Silk and Sonnets Karen Anne Davies, 2004-02 Silk and Sonnets is a modern book of sonnets that will take you on a journey through a diversity of emotions from love to dark silly to serious to a place where the past becomes the present in Shakespearian style Sit back put your feet up and jump into a world of Silk and Sonnets between these pages of poetic visions Enjoy a taste of that poetic vision within The poet writes with words rich from the heart In a world of suffering he comforts He dissects thoughts and slices them apart Verse after verse he vomits words of hurts and you the analyst dissect the words judging them by how you can relate or how they make you feel soon afterwards For it is you the poet's words are for For years the poet shared their world in word entertaining he who chose to witness And you the analyst for years have heard through imagery the sorrow and the bliss Oh may the poet's words forever pour and you the analyst read evermore
