Everything That Burns Gita Trelease, 2025-10-16 Gita Trelease's Everything That Burns is the transporting sequel to All That Glitters hailed by NPR as a soaring success. Camille Durbonne gambled everything she had to keep herself and her sister safe. But as the people of Paris starve and mobs riot, safety may no longer be possible. Not when Camille lives for the rebellion. In the pamphlets she prints, she tells the stories of girls living at society's margins. But as her writings captivate the public, she begins to suspect a dark magic she can't control lies at the heart of her success. Then Louis XVI declares magic a crime and all magicians traitors to France. As bonfires incinerate enchanted books and special police prowl the city, the time for magic and those who work it is running out. In this new Paris, where allegiances shift and violence erupts, the answers Camille seeks set her on a perilous path, one that may cost her the boy she loves, even her life. If she can discover who she truly is before vengeful forces unmask her, she may still win this deadly game of revolution. Staff Notes St. Louis Public Library, 1916

Magical Epistemologies Anannya Dasgupta, 2021-07-21 This book began with a simple question: when readers such as us encounter the term magic or figures of magicians in early modern texts, dramatic or otherwise, how do we read them? In the twenty-first century, we have recourse to an array of genres and vocabulary from magical realism to fantasy fiction that does not, however, work to read a historical figure like John Dee or a fictional one he inspired in Shakespeare's Prospero. Between longings to transcend human limitation and the actual work of producing, translating, and organizing knowledge, figures such as Dee invite us to re-examine our ways of reading magic only as metaphor. If not metaphor, then what else? As we parse the term magic, it reveals a rich context of use that connects various aspects of social, cultural, religious, economic, legal, and medical lives of the early moderns. Magic makes its presence felt not only as a form of knowledge but in methods of knowing in the Renaissance. The arc of dramatists and texts that this book draws between Doctor Faustus, The Tempest, The Alchemist, and Comus. A Masque at Ludlow Castle offers a sustained examination of the epistemologies of magic in the context of early modern knowledge formation. This book is co-published with Aakar Books, New Delhi; Taylor Francis does not sell or distribute the print versions of this book in India, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh, and Sri Lanka.

Making Pagans John Kuhn, 2024-12-10 How early modern theatrical practice helped construct the category of pagan as a tool of European self-definition and colonial ambition. In Making Pagans, John Kuhn argues that drama played a powerful role in the articulation of religious difference in the seventeenth century. Tracing connections between the history of stagecraft and ethnological disciplines such as ethnography, antiquarianism, and early comparative religious writing, Kuhn shows how early modern repertory systems that leaned heavily on thrift and reuse produced an enduring theatrical vocabulary for understanding religious difference through the representation of paganism, a key term in the new taxonomy of world religions emerging at this time and a frequent subject and motif in English drama of the era. Combining properties such as triumphal chariots, trick altars, and moving statues with music, special effects, and other elements, the spectacular set pieces that were mostly developed for plays set in antiquity depicting England's pre-Christian past were frequently repurposed in new plays in representations of Native Americans and Africans in colonial contact zones Kuhn argues that the recycling of these set pieces encouraged audiences to process new cultural sites through the lens of old performance tropes and helped produce fictitious quasi ethnographic knowledge for spectators generating the idea of a homogeneous trans historical trans geographical paganism Examining the common scenes of pagan ritual that filled England's seventeenth century stages magical conjurations oracular prophecies barbaric triumphal parades and group suicides Kuhn traces these tropes across dozens of plays from a range of authors including Ben Jonson Christopher Marlowe John Dryden and Philip Massinger Drawing together theater history Atlantic studies and the history of comparative religion Making Pagans reconceptualizes the material and iterative practices of the theater as central to the construction of radical religious difference in early modernity and of the category of paganism as a tool of European self definition and colonial ambition
