Mr Fittons Commission:

Mr Fitton's Commission Showell Styles, 2014-06-12 Discharged from active duty after the signing of the peace treaty with France in 1801 Michael Fitton is married and eking out a living as a farmer when he is called back into service with the Royal Navy as Britain embarks on war with France once more Hoping to be sent into active service in the Mediterranean or the Channel where the possibility of earning his Lieutenant's commission is high Fitton is disappointed when he is sent instead back to the West Indies where he is placed in command of the schooner Gipsy However never one to turn his back on his duty Fitton embraces life at sea again and soon finds himself back capturing privateer ships and engaging in daring sea battles Putting all his knowledge skills and courage to the test Fitton once again proves himself to be a master seaman Surely this time he will finally earn that longed for commission to become Lieutenant Fitton Mr Fitton's Commission was first published in 1977 Mr Fitton's Commission Showell Styles, 1977 Mr Fitton's Commission. Large Print S.

Styles, 1981 A Sword for Mr Fitton Showell Styles, 2014-05-12 It's 1799 and Michael Fitton joins the crew of the HMS Abergavenny as acting lieutenant Volunteering to command the armed launch bought by Abergavenny's crew to cruise the seas searching for prizes Fitton must set sail with unknown soldiers who haven't seen action in months With the threat of mutiny and desertion it's imperative that the venture succeeds However Fitton and his crew are lucky and before long they are renowned in the Caribbean for their many successes Capturing a French barque Fitton learns from the captain that a secret plot by the British to attack Dutch held Curaçao is known by the Dutch and Spanish A counter attack is planned that will certainly lead to the demise of the British forces Can Fitton and his crew reach the island in time to stop this from happening On the brink of finally receiving his commission as a lieutenant Fitton must use all his resources and courage to help the British at Curaçao find the treasure of the pirate Van Horn and above all lead his crew back to the safety of the British held port in Kingston A Sword for Mr Fitton was first published in 1975 Richmond Son Peter R

Fitton, 2017-05-05 Richmond Son is a snapshot of the life and times of a boy during the 1950s He lives in Richmond an old and tired suburb on the doorstep of Melbourne Peter attends St James North Richmond a Catholic primary school where the pupils are taught by nuns Its struggling under the pressures of a burgeoning student population the effects of the post war immigration boom and the baby boomers There's no government funding and few new nuns A sense of antagonism is swirling just below the surface as Catholics continue to battle under the gaze of an indifferent Protestant majority But unforeseen changes are about to occur which will ultimately transform this situation Peter's parents were strugglers Like many of that time they had been faced by a future without opportunity First there had been the social political and educational abyss of the 1930s depression where adult unemployment reached 30% Then the war arrived which led to conscription for my father and factory work for my mother When wars end finally came a whole generation would look back upon a fifteen year period that had been laced with fear and despair By the middle 1950s our splendid city of Melbourne was on the cusp of great change The Olympic Games were about to transform it and so was black and white television Millions of new migrants would complete the transformation Peter reflects upon how it used to be seen through the eyes of a boy just eight years old

Working-Class Child Care, 1850-1899 Melanie Reynolds,2016-05-21 Infant Mortality and Working Class Child Care 1850 1899 unlocks the hidden history of working class child care during the second half of the nineteenth century seeking to challenge those historians who have cast working class women as feckless and maternally ignorant By plotting the lives of northern women whilst they grappled with industrial waged work in the factory in agriculture in nail making and in brick and salt works this book reveals a different picture of northern childcare one which points to innovative and enterprising child care models Attention is also given to day carers as they acted in loco parentis and the workhouse nurse who worked in conjunction with medical paediatrics to provide nineteenth century welfare to pauper infants Through the use of a new and wide range of source material which includes medical and poor law history Melanie Reynolds allows a fresh and new perspective of working class child care to arise The Mammoth Book of Men O' War Jon E.
