One Man's Documentary Graham McInnes,2004-11-18 Graham McInnes was one of many talented young people recruited by the charismatic John Grierson to build the National Film Board of Canada during the heady days of WWII McInnes's memoir of these days of high excitement is an insider's look at the NFB from 1939 to 1945 a vivid origin story of Canada's emerging world class film studio that provides the NFB with the kind of full bodied vitality usually associated with the great Hollywood studios in their golden years An art critic and CBC radio commentator when he joined the NFB in 1939 as a scriptwriter McInnes worked on many film classics with filmmakers such as Tom Daly Norman McLaren Gudrun Parker and Budge Crawley McInnes portrays these legends as well as many other players in that dynamic world such as Lorne Green Morley Callaghan and Mavis Gallant in this stylish witty and affectionate recreation of the early day to day frenzy One Man's Documentary is a lively account of one of the most exciting periods in Canadian filmmaking With style and verve McInnes paints vivid portraits of Grierson and the others who helped make the NFB an international institution Film historian Gene Walz's introduction gives a full picture of the early history of the NFB as well as an account of McInnes's fascinating life Cities of Affluence and Anger Peter Kalliney, 2015-10-29 Providing a compact literary history of the twentieth century in England Cities of Affluence and Anger studies the problematic terms of national identity during England's transition from an imperial power to its integration in the global cultural marketplace While the countryside had been the dominant symbol of Englishness throughout the previous century modern literature began to turn more and more to the city to redraw the boundaries of a contemporary cultural polity The urban class system paradoxically still functioned as a marker of wealth status and hierarchy throughout this long period of self examination but it also became a way to project a common culture and mitigate other forms of difference Local class politics were transformed in such a way that enabled the English to reframe a highly provisional national unity in the context of imperial disintegration postcolonial immigration and later globalization Kalliney plots the decline of the country house novel through an analysis of Forster's Howards End and Waugh's Brideshead Revisited each ruthless in its sabotage of the trope of bucolic harmony The traditionally pastoral focus of English fiction gives way to a high modernist urban narrative exemplified by Woolf's Mrs Dalloway and later to realists such as Osborne and Sillitoe through whose work Kalliney explores postwar urban expansion and the cultural politics of the welfare state Offering fresh new readings of Lessing's The Golden Notebook and Rushdie's The Satanic Verses the author considers the postwar appropriation of domesticity the emergence of postcolonial literature and the renovation of travel narratives in the context of globalization Kalliney suggests that it is largely one city London through which national identity has been reframed How and why this transition came about is a process that Cities of Affluence and Anger depicts with exceptional insight and originality The New York Times Book Review, 1970 Trip City Trevor Miller, 2021-05-20 In the summer of 1989 when Trip City was first released with a soundtrack by A Guy Called Gerald there had been no other British novel like it This was the down and dirty side of London nightclubs dance music and the kind of hallucinogenic drug sub culture that hadn't really been explored since Tom Wolfe's The Electric Kool Aid Acid Test Maybe this is why Trip City is still known as the acid house novel and an underground literary landmark A nightclub promoter returns to town and is thrown into an insidious world of designer drugs psychosis and murder Filled with mind bending hallucinogenic moments Trip City by Trevor Miller veers into the realm of Alphaville and neo noir of the French new wave

The Intersection of Class and Space in British Postwar Writing Simon Lee,2022-12-29 Centering on the British kitchen sink realism movement of the late 1950s and early 1960s specifically its documentation of the built environment s influence on class consciousness this book highlights the settings of a variety of novels plays and films turning to archival research to offer new ways of thinking about how spatial representation in cultural production sustains or intervenes in the process of social stratification As a movement that used gritty documentary style depictions of space to highlight the complexities of working class life the period s texts chronicled shifts in the social and topographic landscape while advancing new articulations of citizenship in response to the failures of post war reconstruction By exploring the impact of space on class this book addresses the contention that critical discourse has overlooked the way the built environment informs class identity

Literature and Culture in Modern Britain: Volume Three Clive Bloom,Gary Day,2014-06-11 British culture has changed almost beyond recognition since 1956 Angry young men have been displaced by Yuppies Elvis by the Spice Girls and meat and two veg by continental cuisine What is more as the death of Diana Princess of Wales showed the British are now more famous for a trembling lower lip than a stiff upper one This volume the last in the series examines the transformations in literature and culture over the last forty years An introductory essay provides a context for the following chapters by arguing that although there have been significant changes in British life there are also profound continuities It also discusses the rise of theory and its impact on the humanities Each essay in the volume concentrates on a facet of British culture over the last half century from painting to poetry from the seriousness of the novel to the postmodern ironies of the computing age What we get from this selection is not only an informed history of the relations between literature and culture but also a lively sense of cultural change not least of which is the new found relationship between literature and other arts which ushers us into the new millennium wider African diasporic community in the Western world Tuire Valkeakari analyzes the writing of Toni Morrison Caryl Phillips Lawrence Hill and other contemporary novelists of African descent She shows how their novels connect with each other and with defining moments in the transatlantic experience most notably the Middle Passage and enslavement The lives of their characters are marked by migration and displacement Their protagonists yearn to experience fulfilling human connection in a place they can call home Portraying strategies of survival adaptation and resistance across the limitless varieties of life experiences in the diaspora these novelists continually reimagine what it means to share a Black diasporic identity
