unlike his own that more than a half century later continue to haunt readers with their minimalist elegance and muted satire. As an essayist and historian Connell produced a wide range of work including a sumptuous body of travel writing, a bestselling epic account of Custer at the Little Bighorn, and a singular series of meditations on history and the human tragedy. This first portrait and appraisal of an under-recognized American writer is based on personal accounts by friends, relatives, writers, and others who knew him; extensive correspondence in library archives; and insightful literary and cultural analysis of Connell's work and its context. It also illuminates aspects of American publishing, Hollywood male anxieties, and the power of place.
