Morawa, 2016-12-14

This book examines EU enlargement by studying how domestic constitutional evolution in the new member states contributes to European integration. In contrast to the usual top down analytical pattern it reverses the paradigm by looking at constitutional developments and dynamics from the bottom up studying how domestic constitutional evolution contributes to European integration. The authors analyze constitutional trends from the perspective of new Member States as policy makers and not strictly as policy takers. The issue of conditionality is also explored in a discussion of the extent to which pre 2004 and 2007 conditionality has had lasting effects at the level of constitutionalization of different areas and norms and if so of what kind. The exploration of Europeanization effects in recent Member States substantiates and demonstrates how enlargement has been an important driving force for the effective export of EU legal rules in this region. The book utilizes a comparative approach to highlight the merits and obstacles created by the growing diversity in the constitutional rules and patterns of the new Member States. It also contains a section that places the CEE constitutionalizing map in a broader comparative European and global context establishing links with similar transitional regimes in the continent and elsewhere.

It provides a great deal of information on these topics in a single volume which presents a considerable value to anyone who wants to study the subject. Prof. Christopher Wolfe, University of Dallas. The book is disturbing. It encourages to pose serious questions in particular about the phenomenon of the persecution for expressing traditional views which ceased to be accepted by certain political and intellectual elites. It presents the context which allows us to realize how difficult it is to address such issues Nevertheless searching for the answers seems absolutely necessary The analyses of the US law could be considered a universal parable about the awareness of free speech The analyses of the law in other countries warn us how fragile the protection of freedom of expression is prof Franciszek Longchamps de Briere Jagiellonian University in Krakow The volume focuses on an important and complex theoretical question of practical value which is inscribed in the debate on the limits of freedom of speech It is a collection of independent studies with a clearly presented central idea Written by the authors representing not only different academic institutions and countries but even different legal cultures Such a choice of authors offers a variety of presented evaluations which testifies to the richness of content included in the book and is an invitation to further studies and analyses prof Wojciech Lis John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin
