Composition American School of Art and Photography, American School of Art and Photography, Scranton, Pa, 1915 The Realisms of Berenice Abbott Terri Weissman, 2011-01-10 The Realisms of Berenice Abbott provides the first in depth consideration of the work of photographer Berenice Abbott Though best known for her 1930s documentary images of New York City this book examines a broad range of Abbott s work including portraits from the 1920s little known and uncompleted projects from the 1930s and experimental science photography from the 1950s It argues that Abbott consistently relied on realism as the theoretical armature for her work even as her understanding of that term changed over time and in relation to specific historical circumstances But as Weissman demonstrates Abbott s unflinching commitment to realist aesthetics led her to develop a critical theory of documentary that recognizes the complexity of representation without excluding or obscuring a connection between art and engagement in the political public sphere In telling Abbott s story The Realisms of Berenice Abbott reveals insights into the politics and social context of documentary production and presents a thoughtful analysis of why documentary remains a compelling artistic strategy today The Photographic News Sir William Crookes, George Wharton Simpson, 1907 The Builder ,1854 CATALOG: "ROBERT GABOR VISUAL AI DESIGN GUIDES" Robert Gabor, 2025-01-10 ROBERT GABOR VISUAL AI DESIGN GUIDES is a comprehensive catalog presenting 450 books from the acclaimed publication series of the same name Spanning over 518 pages this catalog offers an overview of 450 books featuring innovative AI generated designs by Robert Gabor Each book highlighted in the catalog spans 150 pages includes a foreword in 12 languages and showcases 100 full page AI generated images providing an inspiring and detailed insight into the new and universal world of AI design The books will be available worldwide starting March 2025 For more details visit www.robertgabor.com Nineteenth-Century Photographs and Architecture Micheline Nilsen, 2017-07-05 Eschewing the limiting idea that nineteenth century architecture photography merely reflects functionality the objective of this collection is to reflect the aesthetic intellectual and cultural concerns of the time The essays hold appeal for social and cultural historians as well as those with an interest in the fields of art history urban geography history of travel and tourism Nineteenth century photographers captured what could be seen and what they wanted to be seen Their images informed of exploration progress heritage and destruction Architecture was a staple subject for the first generation of photographers as it patiently tolerated the long exposures of the early processes During its formative decades photography responded to evolutionary cultural forces of market and artistic production Photographs of architecture reflected a specific political or social context modulated through individual points of view For this reason the examination of each photographic image as a primary visual document and an aesthetic object rather than a technical milestone on a chronological trajectory affords a richer multi faceted approach to the extensive and complex corpus of photographs taken by photographers all over the world This project acknowledges the importance of technique in the early decades of photography but focuses on the thematic content of the material It places the photography of architecture in an international context under the contemporary critical lens sharpened by theoretical and cultural examinations of the topic
