Glover, Daniel Tagliarina, 2012-11-22 To teach political issues such as political struggle justice interstate conflict etc educators rely mostly on textbooks and lectures However many other forms of narrative exist that can elevate our understanding of such issues This innovative work seeks new ways to foster learning beyond the textbook and lecture model by using creative and new media including graphic novels animated films hip hop music Twitter and more Discussing the opportunities these media offer to teach and engage students about politics the work presents concrete ways on how to use them along with teaching and assessment strategies all tested in the classroom The contributors are dedicated educators from various types of institutions whose essays span a variety of political topics and examine how non traditional texts can promote critical thinking and intellectual growth among students in colleges and universities The first of its kind to discuss a wide range of alternative texts and media the book will be a valuable resource to anyone seeking to develop innovative curricula and engage their students in the study of politics Race and Vision in the Nineteenth-Century United States Shirley Samuels, 2019-11-08 Race and Vision in the Nineteenth Century United States is a collection of twelve essays by cultural critics that exposes how fraught relations of identity and race appear through imaging technologies in architecture scientific discourse sculpture photography painting music theater and finally the twenty first century visual commentary of Kara Walker Throughout these essays the racial practices of the nineteenth century are juxtaposed with literary practices involving some of the most prominent writers about race and identity such as Herman Melville and Harriet Beecher Stowe as well as the technologies of performance including theater and music Recent work in critical theories of vision technology and the production of ideas about racial discourse has emphasized the inextricability of photography with notions of race and American identity The collected essays provide a vivid sense of how imagery about race appears in the formative period of the nineteenth century United States Images of the U.S. around the World Yahya R.

Kamalipour, 1999-01-01 Examines how peoples of other nations perceive the U S how media of other nations portray the U S and how exported media products impact the U S image around the world      Cartoon Conflicts Richard Scully, Paulo Jorge Fernandes, Ritu Gairola Khanduri, 2025-07-28 This edited collection of new research highlights the way in which the cartoon long regarded as a staple of journalism and freedom of expression faces new challenges in the twenty first century that can be far better understood and appreciated if one takes an historical perspective Current debates over the limits of freedom of expression political correctness and cancel culture all have their precedents in past controversies over cartoons and caricature indeed there is a definite continuum between these past instances of debate and their present manifestations Chapters 2 and 10 are available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer.com
