as our own backyard but in their very conception and the marks they bear of human care and cultivation gardens stand as restorative nourishing necessary havens With Gardens Robert Pogue Harrison graces readers with a thoughtful wide ranging examination of the many ways gardens evoke the human condition Moving from the gardens of ancient philosophers to the gardens of homeless people in contemporary New York he shows how again and again the garden has served as a check against the destruction and losses of history The ancients explains Harrison viewed gardens as both a model and a location for the laborious self cultivation and self improvement that are essential to serenity and enlightenment an association that has continued throughout the ages The Bible and Qur an Plato s Academy and Epicurus s Garden School Zen rock and Islamic carpet gardens Boccaccio Rihaku Capek Cao Xueqin Italo Calvino Ariosto Michel Tournier and Hannah Arendt all come into play as this work explores the ways in which the concept and reality of the garden has informed human thinking about mortality order and power Alive with the echoes and arguments of Western thought Gardens is a fitting continuation of the intellectual journeys of Harrison s earlier classics Forests and The Dominion of the Dead Voltaire famously urged us to cultivate our gardens with this compelling volume Robert Pogue Harrison reminds us of the nature of that responsibility and its enduring importance to humanity I find myself completely besotted by a new book titled Gardens An Essay on the Human Condition by Robert Pogue Harrison The author is one of the very best cultural critics at work today He is a man of deep learning immense generosity of spirit passionate curiosity and manifold rhetorical gifts Julia Keller Chicago Tribune This book is about gardens as a metaphor for the human condition Harrison draws freely and with brilliance from 5 000 years of Western literature and criticism including works on philosophy and garden history He is a careful as well as an inspiring scholar Tom Turner Times Higher Education When I was a student my Cambridge supervisor said in the Olympian tone characteristic of his kind that the only living literary critics for whom he would sell his shirt were William Empson and G Wilson Knight Having spent the subsequent 30 years in the febrile world of academic Lit Crit I m not sure that I d sell my shirt for any living critic But if there had to be one it would unquestionably be Robert Pogue Harrison whose study Forests The Shadow of Civilization published in 1992 has the true quality of literature not of criticism it stays with you like an amiable ghost long after you read it Though more modest in scope this new book is similarly destined to become a classic It has two principal heroes the ancient philosopher Epicurus and the wonderfully witty Czech writer Karel Capek apropos of whom it is remarked that whereas most people believe gardening to be a subset of life gardeners including Capek understand that life is a subset of gardening Jonathan Bate The Spectator Testament of Lost Youth Kathryn Ecclestone,2025-01-30 Vera Brittain is one of the twentieth century s most significant feminist and pacifist figures Her 1933 best selling First World War memoir Testament of Youth is acclaimed as one of the most important autobiographies of the last hundred years Testament of Lost Youth is the first book to examine Vera s cossetted middle class upbringing in once fashionable Buxton between 1905 and 1915 She condemned her provincial young ladyhood with remorseless fervour but were her criticisms justified or is there a more complex nuanced story Drawing on Vera s own diary letters and a wealth of historical sources Kathryn Ecclestone uncovers the hidden layers of Vera s privileged early life Her book challenges traditional portrayals to shed new light on the unique social atmosphere of Edwardian Buxton Vera s schooling and experience of university her family social and love life before a harrowing journey through the First World War where she lost her fianc adored brother and many friends and acquaintances From her intellectual awakening to her battles against societal constraints this book filled with images of Vera and her family presents a nuanced exploration of a remarkable woman revealing how her early life shaped and inspired the icon the world came to know

Conservation of Threatened Plants J. Simmons, 2013-03-08 During the last h10 hundred years man has changed from living in equilibrium with the natural world which sustained him to a new position in which he is now its undisputed ruler and very often out of equilibrium able in a matter of hours to reduce miles of forest to devastated potential desert This destructive and wasteful ability has increas d dramatically over recent years At the same time however the need for conservation particularly of plants as a resource for the future has also become apparent along with the realisation that advanced technologies can produce more from existing agricultural and forest regions This may to some extent relieve the heavy pressure on the vulnerable areas where short term over exploitation leads to permanent destruction of whole ecosystems and the attendant loss for ever of many of the animals and plants which originally lived there There still remains today a vast number of plant species whose potential is unknown Maybe they will never have more than aesthetic value to mankind But who knows where for example the next anti cancer agent may be found And anyway future generations may not be ready to accept such anthropocentric values and the options should be kept open for the philosophical concept that all life on earth has a right to exist and that man has none to exterminate
