Baker, Tade Akin Aina, 1995 South Africa by Christian M Rogerson African Youth and the Persistence of

Marginalization Danielle Resnick, James Thurlow, 2015-04-10 The much heralded growth and transformation of many economies in sub Saharan Africa over the last decade continues to receive prominent attention in academic scholarship and among policy practitioners An apparent feature about this transformation however is that Africa s youth appear to have been left out This book critically examines the extent and consequences of the marginalization of African youth It questions conventional wisdoms about data trends aspirational goals and common policy interventions surrounding Africa s youth that have been variously propagated in both the development studies literature and in mainstream donor policy reports The book explores macro trends from both a temporal and cross regional perspective in order to highlight what is distinct about contemporary African youth and whether their prospects and behaviours do actually vary from their counterparts in other regions of the world or from previous generations of African youth Such studies include cross country analyses of youth employment patterns and modes of political participation in depth examination of the behaviours and aspirations of the urban youth and critical reflections on the impact of rural employment initiatives vocational education and learnership programmes The incorporation of multiple methods and disciplines as well as its attention to policy issues ensures that the book will be of great interest to graduate students researchers and professional researchers whose work lies at the intersection of African area studies and development studies as well as those focused on development economics political science and public policy and administration Migration, Urbanization, and Development Richard E. Bilborrow, 1998 Internal migration and urbanization are key dimensions of the process of socioeconomic development The unprecedented movement of peoples within the borders of their own countries is one of the greatest transformations witnessed in the 20th century Policy analysts especially those from developing countries where internal migration can be felt at first hand view migration as one of the most important factors affecting the course of development It is within this context that UNFPA convened the Symposium on Internal Migration and Urbanization in Developing Countries in January 1996 in preparation for the United Nations World Conference on Human Settlements in Istanbul in June 1996 The final results of the symposium are found in this book This volume provides a better understanding at global level of internal migration issues of concern to policy analysts Census Mapping Survey Prithvish Nag, 1984 Country reports with reference to selected countries from all the continents

Migration in the Service of African Development John O. Oucho, 2012-12-19 Fifteen chapters are included here in this compendium in honour of the Nigerian migration scholar Professor Aderanti Adepoju. Though the authors come from diverse disciplinary backgrounds geography demography sociology and law they all work within the fields of internal and international migration in Africa. Chapters on Uganda Kenya Botswana Nigeria and Mali are devoted to aspects of internal migration while those on African emigration to Mexico and migration between Burkina Faso and Cote d'Ivoire address various aspects of international migration. Migration issues in relation to women students and climate change are also discussed.

Health and Health Care in Developing Countries Peter Conrad, Eugene B. Gallagher, 2011 The volume covers a range of areas central Africa Nigeria Singapore Taiwan Indonesia Nepal China United Arab Emirates Oman and Mexico and a broad scope of topics from emergency care the AIDS epidemic and women's health care to public health programs and national health care policies. Contributors address the central question of whether health systems in developing areas should emphasize the role of clinical medicine and individual physicians or community and preventive medical resources. The major health problems faced by these societies inadequate sanitation infectious disease high infant child mortality and a lack of family planning indicate the greater need for health educators and public health workers despite many poor nations' desire for Western doctors. Other topics that are examined include the process of seeking medical aid the relationship between traditional and modern medicines medical education hospital care and communication between doctors and patients in developing countries and the relevance and application of sociology in Third World settings. This volume seeks to draw attention to the significance of medical sociology for understanding Third World health problems and to show how examining developing societies may necessitate reframing or modifying some Western sociological notions. Migration and Mobility

A.J. Boyce, 2022-11-16 Migration and Mobility 1984 examines the biological aspects of population movement including genetic anthropometric and psychological aspects. Other contributions deal with geographical and demographic features of human migration. Specific studies are described and the theoretical framework used to describe population mobility is presented. Bands, Tribes, & First Peoples and Nations Richard Barrington, 2014-07-15 Anthropology politics and history come together to form an insightful blend in this authoritative title covering kinship tribalism and nonurban cultures the world over. Both the theory and practical examples of tribal cultures are presented with several chapters dedicated to the various schools of anthropological thought on nonurban societies accompanied by a survey of tribal and indigenous cultures both historically and in modern times. American Indians the indigenous peoples of South America nomadic tribes of the Middle East and Aboriginal Australians are a few of the societies explored in this extensive text.
