Reenchantment Without Supernaturalism A Process Philosophy Of Religion:

Reenchantment Without Supernaturalism David Ray Griffin, 2001 Occasionally a book comes along that is definitive for its field of study a book that marks a milestone in thought Griffin has written just such a book a book that by all rights should mark a watershed in the academic study of religion Griffin makes about as strong a case as one can in a single volume for a genuine and viable alternative The Journal of Religion The process philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead and Charles Hartshorne has made many distinctive contributions to the philosophy of religion David Ray Griffin now offers the first full scale philosophy of religion written from this perspective discussing such topics as the relationship between science and religion the validity of religious experience the nature and existence of God religious pluralism creation and evolution and the problem of evil Griffin s clear and comprehensive book also serves as a valuable introduction to process philosophy itself In his vigorous defense of a worldview that is fully naturalistic and fully religious Griffin shows not only how this position reconciles naturalism with freedom genuine religious experience and even life after death but also how its naturalistic theism reenchants the world in the sense of providing cosmic support for moral values Highly original and sometimes controversial Griffin s book develops its stance in conversation with influential proponents of other philosophical positions including William P Alston Jürgen Habermas John Hick Colin McGinn Alvin Plantinga Hilary Putnam Willard Quine Ninian Smart Jeffrey Stout and Bernard Williams

Reading Richard Dawkins Gary Keogh, 2014 Theological reactions to the rise of the new atheist movement have largely been critically hostile or defensively deployed apologetics to shore up the faith against attack Gary Keogh contends that focusing on scholarly material that is inherently agreeable to theology will not suffice in the context of modern academia Theology needs to test its boundaries and venture into dialogue with those with antithetical positions Engaging Richard Dawkins as the embodiment of such a position illustrates how such dialogue may offer new perspectives on classical theological problems such as the relationship of science and religion the existence of God creation natural suffering and theodicy Keogh demonstrates how a dialogical paradigm may take shape rather than merely discussing it as a theoretical framework A dialogue between such opposing hermeneutics may provide a new paradigm of theological scholarship one which is up to the task of facing its critics in the public and pluralistic context of modern academia

The Cambridge Companion to Postmodern Theology Kevin J. Vanhoozer, 2003-07-31 Postmodernity allows for no absolutes and no essence Yet theology is concerned with the absolute the essential How then does theology sit within postmodernity Is postmodern theology possible or is such a concept a contradiction in terms Should theology bother about postmodernism or just get on with its own thing Can it Theologians have responded in many different ways to the challenges posed by theories of postmodernity In this introductory 2003 guide to a complex area editor Kevin J Vanhoozer addresses the issue head on in a lively survey of what talk about God might mean in a postmodern age and vice versa The book then offers examples of different types of contemporary theology in relation to postmodernity while the second part examines the key Christian doctrines in postmodern perspective Leading theologians contribute to this clear and informative Companion which no student of theology should be without

Faith and Culture JIM SYMONS, 2013-12-23 How does faith impact culture What influence does culture have on faith These questions might seem academic limited to university religion or philosophy classes until we look at the morning headlines or listen to the evening newscasts Our lives are invaded daily by stories of extremists with yet another suicide bombing or protests for or against reproductive rights or scientific discoveries raising questions about the creation of the universe all based on conflicting faith commitments Like it or not these faith culture questions are part of all of our lives In this book six writers explore the juncture of faith and different dimensions of 21st century cultures The words faith and culture are dynamic not static Over time they take on new meanings In the Christian tradition for centuries faith meant the total life of a follower of Jesus But in the last three centuries of the Enlightenment many have come to see faith as a rational set of beliefs that are often separated from the way a person lives In the chapters of this book there is an effort to describe faith as a way of life that sometimes supports current dimensions of culture and sometimes opposes them Since faith is a personal response to God there are as many different expressions of faith as there are people Instead of seeing this as a problem each of our writers presents the juncture of faith and culture from their own personal experience and we are all enriched by the differences In this book we see the process of current cultures changing being shaped in new ways at least in part by faith communities Being aware of these changes makes it possible for each of us to join our writers to be a part of the change we seek in our world instead of being victims of forces beyond our control
