Congress. House. Committee on Science and Technology. Subcommittee on Natural Resources, Agriculture Research, and Environment, 1986 Breaking New Ground: A Personal History Lester R. Brown, 2013-10-21 An inspirational memoir tracing Lester Brown's life from a small farm childhood to leadership as a global environmental activist Lester R Brown whom the Washington Post praised as one of the world's most influential thinkers built his understanding of global environmental issues from the ground up Brown spent his childhood working on the family's small farm His entrepreneurial skills surfaced early Even while excelling in school he launched with his younger brother a tomato growing operation that by 1958 was producing 1.5 million pounds of tomatoes Later at the U.S. Department of Agriculture Brown emphasized the need for systemic thinking In 1963 he did the first global food supply and demand projections to the end of the century While on a brief assignment in India in 1965 he pieced together the clues that led him to sound the alarm on an impending famine there His urgent warning to the U.S. and Indian governments set in motion the largest food rescue effort in history helping to save millions of lives This experience led India to adopt new agricultural practices which he helped to shape Brown went on to advise governments internationally and to found the Worldwatch and Earth Policy institutes two major nonprofit environmental research organizations Both brilliant and articulate through his many books he has brought to the fore the interconnections among such issues as overpopulation climate change and water shortages and their effect on food security His 1995 book Who Will Feed China led to a broad restructuring of China's agricultural policy Never one to focus only on the problem Brown always proposes pragmatic employable solutions to stave off the unfolding ecological crises that endanger our future The Rise of Global Health Joshua K. Leon, 2015-02-10 Chronicles the expanding global effort to confront public health challenges Since the year 2000 unprecedented resources have been committed to the complex challenge of developing global public health solutions by national governments multilateral organizations and civil society groups This vast global movement is one of the most remarkable political phenomena of twenty-first century international relations but is it working In The Rise of Global Health Joshua K. Leon argues against the conventional wisdom which argues that collective action on development issues including controversial increases in foreign aid is too inherently inefficient to succeed Leon shows that public action on a global level can successfully pursue health equality Often at the behest of grassroots activists these disparate groups of actors are cooperating more than ever with the aim of improving our human potential through better health Though operating at cross purposes with unequal trade agreements and other factors within the global economy harming the Global South we learn something surprising about global health governance it is evolving in
